Benjamin Rush Awards Are Given To Miss McMillan And Local Moose Lodge Thursday

Miss Margaret McMillan, York R., and the local Moose lodge were honored Thursday evening by the Adams County Medical Society with the presentation of Benjamin Rush awards.

Dr. Roy W. Gifford, associate surgeon at the Warner Hospital, represented the medical societies of the county and state in making the presentations of the plaques given annually to an individual and an organization for outstanding work related to health.

The awards are named for Dr. Benjamin Rush, pioneer physician in Pennsylvania, who came from Edinburgh, Scotland, to set up his practice in the colonies, and became the first outstanding practitioner of medicine in the state.

Accepted By Mummert

Actual presentation of the award was made to Govenor Russell Mumert in the name of the Moose Lodge. Dr. Gifford outlined the activities of the Moose lodge over the years in support of the various drives—Heart, Cancer, Polio, etc. He described various individual activities of the Moose, noting that 15 projects relating to health were carried out by the lodge during the past year. One of the larger projects undertaken by the Moose in recent years was the purchase and donation of the Gettysburg ambulance to the local hospital, Dr. Gifford said.

He praised not only the Moose, but all organizations in the community for their work in supporting "activities of community betterment that would have to go by the board if there were not this excellent attitude of public service on the part of the local organizations.

"Generally the membership does not realize the tremendous work carried on by their organizations, not only in the organized drives and work, but also in individual cases in which the organizations provide much to help medicine and the community."

Governor Mummert in thanking the medical society for the award added: "I am sure I can make a pledge in the name of the 1900 members of our lodge that the Moose will continue throughout the years in supporting the outstanding work of the physicians of our county."

Dr. Gifford, in making the presentation to Miss McMillan, noted: "Once, when life was more simple and communities smaller, neighbors

Family Of Missing British Diplomat May Be In Austria

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP)—Swiss police today began checking a theory that Mrs. Donald Maclean and her three children crossed the Iron Curtain into Austria last Saturday with a sleeping car ticket issued in London 12 days earlier.

Mrs. Maclean, the wife of a senior British Foreign Office official believed to have vanished into Soviet-controlled Eastern Europe in 1o51, disappeared from her home here a week ago.

She and her children were last definitely identified by a fellow passenger, Prof. Andre Guignard of Lausanne, on a train which left Lausanne for Zurich at 6:58 p. m. on Friday. Beyond Fribourg, where the professor left the train, Mrs. Maclean's trail vanishes as completely as did that of her husband more than two years ago.

But Swiss police unearthed a slender new clue today in their investigation of the possibility that Mrs. Maclean changed trains in Zurich and travelled unnoticed into the Soviet zone of Austria.

A sleeping car compartment for two was ordered by a travel agency in London from Zurich to Vienna on the Arlberg Orient Express leaving Zurich at 11:34 p. m. Friday. The agency's Zurich office made the reservation for berths 17 and 18 and advised London accordingly, but received no notification of the name of the persons for whom the berths had been reserved. Ticket 359607 was issued to the unknown travellers in London on Aug. 31.

Swiss police conducting the search said they would investigate to whom these tickets were issued in London. Mrs. Maclean may have had help in her disappearance, since a telegram was sent on her behalf to her mother by an unknown woman who was definitely identified as not being Mrs. Maclean.

Doctor's Wife Says She Was Knifed By Unknown Motorist

YORK, Pa. (AP)—The 47-year-old wife of a Harrisburg physician told state police today she was stabbed by a motorist who had offered her a ride after she had left her husband's car.

State policeman Alfred Corkran identified the woman as Mrs. Elizabeth Dapp, wife of Dr. Gustave A. Dapp. Mrs. Dapp was reported in a satisfactory condition at York Hospital.

Corkran said the woman told him she was returning from a fishing trip to Indian River, Md., when she had an argument with her husband and left their car. After walking a short distance she said she was picked up by a passing motorist who offered her a ride to York.

The state policeman said she could describe her assailant only as a man about 25 years old.

Corkran said Mrs. Dapp ran out of a wooded area about eight miles from York last night in a hysterical condition, crying she had been stabbed.

Corkran said the woman related that the motorist left the main highway, saying he knew a short cut into town. Upon reaching the wooded area he told her he had to stop because of tire trouble.

She said the man started making "improper advances" and when she struggled he pulled out a knife and stabbed her.

Hospital officials refused to permit any further questioning at the time.

Corkran said the husband returned to Harrisburg.

FOUR INJURED ON TURNPIKE

BEDFORD, Pa. (AP)—Four Eastern Pennsylvanians suffered minor injuries today as their auto crashed into the rear of a trailer-truck on the Pennsylvania Turnpike, about three miles east of Bedford.

All four were released after receiving first aid treatment for cuts, scratches and bruises at Bedford Memorial Hospital. They are Joseph Sciuto Jr., 25; his wife, Beatrice, 24; her mother, Mrs. Virginia Bertotti, 66, all of Philadelphia; and Mrs. Bertotti's sister-in-law, Mrs. Beatrice Cornabee, 55, of Yeadon, Pa.

Mrs. Bertotti's son, Victor Bertotti, 39, of Philadelphia, driver of the car, was not injured.

State police said the trailer-tractor caught fire from a right rear flat tire and partially burned. Bertotti's car was badly damaged. Police are continuing the investigation.

The party was en route to Clinton, Ind., to visit relatives when the crash occurred.

TAYLOR ORDER AROUSES GIS

SEOUL, Friday (AP)—A sampling of soldier reaction has uncovered both approval and dissent following Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor's call to his U. S. 8th Army to help rebuild South Korea.

Some U. S. soldiers thought a little construction work would be a relief from the military routine which has settled down on the vast Army now that the guns are silent.

The critics thought: 1. That a soldier should fight, not work as a laborer; 2. that if there were so many soldiers here they could be spared for rebuilding then some should be rotated home.

Taylor in a message broadcast over Army radios in Korea authorized a voluntary program under which the 8th Army could help rebuild war-torn towns and villages, schools and hospitals and lend a hand in health and sanitation projects.

"War-torn Korea needs help," said Pfc. Arthur R. Auman Jr., a Marine from Bellefonte, Pa. "The United States has assisted in fighting over here. Now I think it's a good idea to help in rebuilding this place."

DENIES MURDER CHARGE

CARLISLE, Pa. (AP) — Clyde V. Ensminger of nearby Bloserville yesterday pleaded innocent to two murder indictments at a hearing before Judge Dale F. Shughart of Cumberland County court.

Ensminger will go on trial Monday, accused of killing his 13-year-old daughter and wife who died in a fire at their home July 20.

SUNSHINE TRAIL SECTION CLOSED

A section of Sunshine Trail is now closed to traffic.

But the freshly resurfaced stretch of mountain highway from Tracey Corners to Fountaindale will be reopened around Thanksgiving.

The forces of E. D. Plummer and Son, Chambersburg, are at work on a two-mile section of the road preparing it for resurfacing.

The highway link had been closed for the past several years during the construction of the "Little Pentagon" near Fountaindale. However, a few months ago, many motorists started traveling over the bumpy section despite the condition of the highway.

With the work almost completed, the government returned the eastern link of the Trail back to the State of Pennsylvania and allocated $80,000 of Federal funds to rebuild a two mile stretch.

The Pennsylvania Department of Highways estimated the work would cost $100,000. Plummer Chambersburg contractor, bid $89,739 and received the contract.

The section being rebuilt starts at the intersection of old Route 16 and Sunshine Trail at the eastern limits of Fountaindale, and extends 200 feet west of the Adams County line into Franklin. The western end of the stretch is about a half-mile east of Tracey Corners.

BULLETINS

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The United States formally notified Communist China and North Korea today that it was standing pat on the U. N.'s decision barring neutrals from the Korean peace conference.

In a note transmitted through the Swedish government and circulated to all 60 members of the U. N., the United States called upon the Communists to act as quickly as possible to propose a time and place for the parley along lines laid down by the Assembly last month.

HONG KONG (AP) — A typhoon with 100-mile-an-hour winds ripped up trees, collapsed buildings and caused landslides today in this British crown colony. One man was killed and two injured when a shop was blown down.

NEW YORK (AP) — An attorney, whom Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy threatened to cite for contempt, was forcibly ejected today from a committee hearing room.

Ordering the lawyer, Abraham Unger, thrown out, the Wisconsin Republican senator declared: "I will not allow a Communist lawyer to use this room as a transmission belt."

ROME (AP)—The Italian Cabinet today unanimously approved Prime Minister Giuseppe Pella's call for a five Power meeting to discuss a plebiscite on the future of disputed Trieste.

Pella called the Cabinet session to explain in detail notes proposing the plebiscite to Washington, London, Paris and Belgrade.

10 MORE ALLIES DENY COMMIES

MUNSAN (AP)—Ten or more Allied prisoners who once refused repatriation have changed their minds and will be handed over to the U.N. Command tomorrow, the Communists told the Allied Command today.

Some could be Americans, but the Reds did not give any nationalities.

The Communists said previously they hold about 300 South Koreans and about 20 non-Koreans who had refused to return home. At least some Americans were believed to be among the score of non-Koreans.

An announcement from the U.N. section of the Joint Military Armistice Commission said the Allied prisoners would be released at 11 a.m. Saturday (9 p.m. Friday EST).

Red sources said earlier this week that the 320 reluctant Allied prisoners were at Kaesong, and probably would be moved into Indian-guarded camps in the neutral zone this weekend.

Meanwhile, South Korea's provost marshal general accused the Communists of intimidating anti-Red North Korean prisoners in Indian custody and threatened to free the few thousand left in Allied camps.

Lt. Gen. Won Yong Duk said the Reds are taking names and addresses of the prisoners and threatening reprisals against their families in North Korea.

However, Indian guards at the neutral zone camp recently have kept Red observers 100 yards or more from the stockades, making it almost impossible to obtain the names of prisoners.

Only about 2,700 North Koreans remain in Allied camps. About 5,100 North Koreans already are in the buffer zone camps where reluctant prisoners of both sides will choose their future.

BIG WIND IS INTO ATLANTIC

HAMILTON, Bermuda (AP)—Hurricane Edna roared on into Atlantic shipping lanes 775 miles east of Cape Hatteras today after playing havoc with transportation and electric power on the vacation island of Bermuda.

The Miami Weather Bureau said indications were that the storm would slowly decrease in ferocity, but the area of gales would become larger as the storm center curved further from North America.

Edna, fifth tropical storm of the season, did no apparent major damage to Bermuda although gusts up to 120 miles per hour whipped across the island. Downed trees and shrubs blocked most thoroughfares. Electric power and water service—cut off at most points at 9:30 p. m.—was not expected to resume until this afternoon.

No casualties had been reported early today.

Father Helps Police Seek Missing Son

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. (AP) — Paul Christoff, whose pretty daughter killed herself last February, is aiding state police in their search for his missing son.

Neighbors said yesterday the elder Christoff is spending most of his time hunting for Jean Christoff, 29, in the wild hills of Northern Cambria County near their Frugality home.

Young Christoff, former Carnegie Institute of Technology student, escaped from Torrance State Hospital near Greensburg Sept. 7.

He was sent to Torrance March 12 about a month after his sister, Jean, 21-year-old Pennsylvania State College senior, was found dead in her bedroom with a dress belt around her throat. A Cambria County coroner's jury ruled the death suicide.

THE JOY OF DISCOVERY

Ever note the baby and its smile as it seems to discover that it has toes and fingers? And then later, as it discovers color, noises, and people? It discovers that it has a mother, but not until later does this consciousness become something that is carried through life as its greatest possession.

Pioneers, who set out to discover gold or other precious metals, or new lands, are largely led to it because of the personal joy, not merely the thrill of possible wealth. To them there is a continual opening up of new experiences. Dullness and hardships are thrown to the winds. Stevenson brings out this idea in his beautiful essay called "The Lantern Bearers." It's the joy of discovery that is the most thrilling.

I rarely meet my friends John Kieran or Edwin Way Teale that they don't have some new tale to tell about some bird they have discovered or learned something new about. That's what keeps them alert and watchful, as well as interesting friends and human beings.

I was always interested in the books of Frank Buck, who hunted animals largely because of the joy that accompanied it, and because he didn't kill them, but "brought them back alive!" Adventure was his life, which is what keeps many a one alive and on his toes for new experiences. Tennyson's Ulysses "sailed the seas" and sought the undiscovered lands because of the joy that was ever about him.

I was thrilled at hearing the late Henry Ford tell me how he discovered the gas engine that created his first small automobile. He led me to the brick building where he housed this car and told me of the steps he took to develop it. It was his greatest treasure—not the billions in money that later resulted from his engineering and perfecting of the car through mass production. The initial job made him happy! The wealth was secondary.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "The Educated Person."

Just Folks

FEMININE WOES

Since women give them greatest care,
Worst, I suppose is,
Of all the ills they have to bear
Are shiny noses.

Next, to the damsel and the dame
Who would be thin is
The worst affliction I can name,
A double chin is.

Follows, a grievance hard to bear
(Some think it shocking,)
Finding, without another pair,
Run in a stocking.

The fourth—and some of them declare
That nothing worse is,
Lip stick required, not knowing where
The party purse is.

TROUT SEASON EXTENSION IS BEING STUDIED

HARRISBURG (AP) — Leaders of Pennsylvania's organized sportsmen today considered urging extension of the trout fishing season by two months each year.

The suggestion was one of dozens screened by directors of the Pennsylvania Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs at the opening of the group's annual two-day convention. The resolutions will be submitted to the general membership tomorrow with the directors' recommendations.

Trout season now opens each April 15 and runs through July 31. A resolution sponsored by the southeastern division calls for extending the closing date to Sept. 30.

Carry Much Weight

The federation's recommendations in the past have carried considerable weight with the State Game and Fish Commissions as well as the Legislature. The group represents 186,000 hunters and fishermen.

"Many of the trout left in the streams of this commonwealth after the close of the season fail to survive the winter," read the resolution under consideration. "An extension of the season to Sept. 30 would relieve pressure on bass and other game fish."

Highlight of the convention will come tomorrow when Dr. Logan J. Bennett, newly-appointed executive director of the State Game Commission, is scheduled to outline his plans for increasing the lot of Pennsylvania hunters.

Deer Issue Quiet

One of the perennial heated issues—what type of a deer season should be held—is expected to take a back seat this year. Only two resolutions have been drawn on the subject.

One calls for a single hunter's choice season of permitting the killing of either doe or buck. The other merely voices approval of the Game Commission's present system of a two week buck shoot followed by two days of doe hunting.

Other Resolutions

Other major resolutions up for consideration include:

Ask the Game Commission not to extend the small game season in the future as it did last year when the opening day was postponed for 11 days due to a forest fire threat.

Prohibit the Game Commission from engaging in any poisoning campaigns as it did last year in attempting to wipe out foxes infected with rabies.

Require that all new applicants for hunting licenses pass an examination based on knowledge of firearms and safety precautions.

Increase the legal limit of trout from six to seven inches.

Permit fishing for carp with bow and arrows.

Have the Legislature introduce the teaching of conservation in public schools.

SIAMESE TWINS ARE IMPROVING AFTER SURGERY

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Chances of surviving improved steadily today for Louisiana's Siamese twins—separated yesterday in a history-making operation.

Foundation Hospital officials said the twin daughters of Mayor and Mrs. Ashton Mouton of Lafayette "still continue to do well."

Dr. L. L. Weismiller, hospital director, said, "The longer they continue to do well, the better their chances are. And it looks encouraging."

Joined At Base Of Spine

The 8-week-old girls, Carolyn Anne and Catherine Anne, were joined near the base of the spine. Hospital spokesmen say as far as they can determine both twins have never survived such an operation.

The babies will regain their strength for several days before doctors examine to determine what further surgery is needed.

The soft-spoken 37-year-old father said after the operation, "God Almighty has been very generous so that we could have our little girls perfectly normal."

Mouton and his attractive 33-year-old wife stayed in a private room during the operation with a bible in their hands.

Grasshoppers Beat Aerial Sprayers

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A farmer near here was appalled at sight of hungry grasshoppers invading his field of corn one evening. He hustled back to the house and phoned a company that does aerial spraying.

They promised to get right on the job in the morning.

But bright and early the farmer took another look at the field and canceled the spray job. The grasshoppers' night shift had cleaned the ield.

SAYS GOP HAS LOST GROUND WITH U. S. LABOR

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Murray of Montana, senior Democrat on the Senate Labor Committee, said today the Republican party has lost popularity by failing to take a formal stand on Taft-Hartley Act revision.

Murray, who headed the Labor Committee under the past Democratic administration, also said it was unlikely Congress would amend the law in the session starting next January.

"The resignation of Secretary of Labor Durkin was injurious to the Republicans, and I don't think you can argue that it was not," Murray said in an interview.

McConnell Discussed

There was speculation that Durkin might be succeeded by Rep. McConnell (R-Pa), chairman of the House Labor Committee. McConnell said he has had discussions of the possibility—he did not say with whom—"but there is nothing definite or final." Associates termed him the No. 1 candidate.

McConnell said in a speech at Princeton, N. J., yesterday that he "never understood there was complete agreement" on proposed Taft-Hartley revision. Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ), chairman of the Senate Labor Committee, said yesterday he was amazed at Durkin's statement because, Smith declared, "I know perfectly well there wasn't any agreement to break."

Meany Fires Blast

President George Meany of the AFL meanwhile fired an angry blast at the Eisenhower administration in St. Louis yesterday, saying that Eisenhower "is not strong enough to stand up for his point of view against the people who seem to control the administration in Washington."

Sen. Smith, in an interview today, said he wants to discuss the whole Taft-Hartley situation with Eisenhower before making any delaw should be changed.

Smith disagreed with Murray's view that no amendments would be adopted by Congress next year, but he cautioned against "too much monkeying" with the law.

MEMPHIS (AP)—Horace Pegues, ticketed for running a red light told officers he was looking at a wrecked car, didn't notice the light. The wrecked car was featured in a civic club display. Purpose: encourage safe driving.

Pete Suhey Predicts Much Stronger Waynesboro Team This Season; Play Tonight

(This is the final in the series of articles on the 1953 prospects of South Penn Conference teams.)

There's relief in sight from the 27-game victory drought at Waynesboro-Mont Alto Senior High School.

That's the feeling shared by students and fans as they watched the daily drills of the Blue and Gold Tornado in preparation for the opening game tonight with the Shippensburg Greyhounds. The 1953 edition of the Tornado is slated to make its debut under the lights at School Stadium, Waynesboro, at 8 p.m.

The Tornado has been victory starved for the last three seasons — 27 games. The last time a Blue and Gold grid force tasted the sweet dregs of victory was way back in 1949, when it upset a favored Hagerstown High School eleven 13-6.

The last time the Tornado stood in the winner's circle in the South Penn Conference was way, way back in 1948 — 39 games ago — when Waynesboro pummeled the Shippensburg Greyhounds 39-6.

In the meantime, however, the Tornado managed to tie Mechanicsburg 6-6 and deadlocked Gettysburg 13-13. That was during the 1949 season.

More Experience

Waynesboro's grid record for the last five years looks like this:

6 wins, 39 losses and 3 ties.

Right now Head Coach Steve Suhey and his staff are in the midst of ironing out the rough spots.

Waynesboro-Mont Alto has a more experienced and stronger team than in the last several years.

"We will have a much better team this year unless the injuries are many," Suhey commented crossing his fingers.

Strong Backfield

The backfield is particularly better this year and is rapidly rounding into shape for the opener. In the last week Suhey has managed to strengthen his defense.

The Tornado lacks depth. Bench strength is relatively weak except for the ends.

Suhey's tentative offensive alignment will average 164 pounds in the line and 160 pounds in the backfield. At the terminals Suhey will likely have Bob Binkley, 160, and Don Shade, 165; tackles Bob Sheffler, 190, and Allen Shively, 180; guards Dick Keckler, 150, and Bob McFerren, 160, Don Wolfe, 145, will be in the pivot spot. Binkley, Shively, Sheffler, Keckler, McFerren and Wolfe, are all holdovers from last season.

Ruppert At Quarter

In the backfield Suhey has 145 pound Charlie Ruppert at quarterback. Larry Provard, 155, and Bill Jairett, 170, at the halves. Either Merle Barnhart 170, or Gerry Barkdoll, 135, will get the fullback nod.

Barnhart, a rookie, should add much to the Tornado's fire-power. A sturdily built youngster who has the speed of a deer, Barnhart is being groomed to share the leather lugging chores with Provard and Jairett, both seasoned backs

The defense alignment will likely have Eddie Doyle, 150, and Don Sanders, 150, a pair of veterans at the wings with McFerren and Shively at tackle and Keckler and Sheffler shifted into the guard slots. Dean Wolff another veteran will be at center. Wolff scales 135 pounds.

The linebackers will be Jairett, Binkley, Shade and Barnhart.

Lack Depth

The two alignments totaling 15 players is the depth of experience. Beyond that Suhey will have to rely on green material.

Up from last season's junior high school eleven are Pete Eden and Kay Yingling, a pair of tackles; Floyd "Sluggo" Rock and Bob Nagy, a pair of sturdy but untried backs. Both may see a lot of action this season.

Cross Reports

Tom Cross, 6'7", 236 pound Negro athlete from Hagerstown has joined the squad and may be used on offense. Another reserve wing man is Max Kline, 140.

Tackle reserves include Frank Woodring, 220 and Ronnie Kauffman; guards, Gerry Shaffer, 130; center, Jimmy Jones, 130, and backs, Larry Bonebrake, 150 and Jerry Niedenthol, 150, both capable of filling a varsity spot; Irvin Young, 135, and H. Hyndman, 125.

Ronnie Rook is being groomed to spell Ruppert at the quarterback spot.

Ruppert and McFerren will do the punting.

TRIPLETS BEAT READING 5 TO 3 FOR FIRST WIN

BINGHAMTON, N. Y. (AP) — The Binghamton Triplets were singing "Home Sweet Home" today.

In their home park, they clipped the Reading Indians, 5-3, last night for their first victory in the Eastern League's final playoff.

The Indians took the first two games at Reading and lead the best-of-seven series, 2-1.

Wally Burnette, the Triplets' 21-game regular season winner, gave up nine hits but was stingy in the clutch. He gained the victory over Jack Carmichael, who started on the mound for the visitors. Reading used Murphy Murszewski and Jim Barnhardt in relief.

Third baseman Jim Finigan doubled in the first inning and scored on Jim Engleman's single to give Binghamton the jump. After the Indians tied the score in the third, Binghamton pushed over two runs in their half of the inning to take a lead they never lost.

Finigan smacked a triple in the third to give him two-for-four for the night.

E Cereghino is scheduled to pitch tonight's fourth game for Binghamton against Norm Camp. The clubs will play here again tomorrow night before moving back to Reading, where the first two contests were held earlier, for any remaining games necessary.

Ryder Cup Team To Play Challenge Squad

READING, Pa. (AP) — Golf's top linksmen tee off here tomorrow in a three-day exhibition test that pits America's Ryder Cup team against a 10-man challenge squad.

On the Ryder Cup team are Lloyd Mangrum, Jack Burke Jr., Ed Oliver, Dr. Cary Middlecoff, Fred Haas, Ted Kroll, Walter Burkemo, Jim Turnesa, Sam Snead and Dave Douglas.

The "challengers" are Jimmy Demaret, Henry Williams Jr., Pete Cooper, George Fazio, Johnny Palmer, Tommy Bolt, Al Besselink, Doug Ford, Lew Worsham and Claude Harmon.

These 20 men, between them, practically own every major golf title that was in competition this year.

KID GAVILAN POINTING FOR DOUBLE TITLE

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Kid Gavilan is looking past tonight's welterweight title defense against rugged Carmen Basilio of nearby Canastota toward a double world championship.

The Cuban Keed has designs on the middleweight crown if he gets past Basilio in a 15-round bout that will be seen and heard nationally by radio (ABC) and television (NBC) at 9:00 p.m. (EST) with Syracuse and a 100-mile area blacked out on TV.

Gavilan Heavy Favorite

If Gavilan wins he is obligated to risk his 147-pound title against Johnny Bratton, former NBA champ, within 60 days but he and his manager, Angel Lopez, already are talking about bigger game.

As Gavilan is a 3½ to 1 choice to dispose of another local hero before the home folks, he can afford to look ahead. If Basilio, 26-year-old son of an onion farmer, upsets him, it will be Carmen's turn to do the talking. The winner must fight Bratton next under terms of an agreement with the New York State Athletic Commission.

Basilio No Cinch

"Gavilan can beat either Bobo Olson or Randy Turpin," said Lopez. "If he went on to win the middleweight title, I would have him retire quick. He would be a great hero in Cuba as a double champ."

Turpin and Olson meet at Madison Square Garden next month for the 160-pound title vacated by Sugar Ray Robinson. Gavilan, of course, would have to give up his welter title if he should win another.

In this neck of the woods, they think Gavilan has no cinch to breeze past Basilio, a game, determined ex-Marine who is superbly conditioned for the big effort of his life.

were able to help neighbors to take care of whatever problems might arise. The neighborhood physician himself could carry on the work in organizing such medical services as were needed.

"But life has become more complex. We need services undreamed of many years ago. The idea of social service has developed over the last 30 years. Today the physician, still as busy as he ever was, would never have the time to take care of the web of activities in connection with public health that is needed to carry on the work.

Honoring A Pioneer

"And so devoted lay people have come to the fore to carry on much of the work to help medicine and the physician. Not that they practice medicine, but they carry on the tremendous amount of work that is needed for public health and social service in connection with medicine.

"Tonight we honor a pioneer in the field of social service, Miss Margaret McMillan, who for more than three decades has probably had more to do with the development of social services in the county than any other person. She was not only the secretary of the Adams County Red Cross for more than 30 years, but she was active in all of the other agencies that have developed. She helped establish the various clinics at the hospital, in fact continues to serve with the psychiatric clinic, arranging for appointments, arranging transportation for them, and seeing that there is fellow-up examination and treatment for those attending the clinic.

Standing Ovation

"The depression years struck while she was at about midpoint in her career of public service, and she was a pioneer in setting up public assistance in the county. During the years she has helped thousands of countians, working unselfishly to do all she could to assist her fellow man.

"The Medical societies of the county and state are pleased to be able to honor her here tonight as an outstanding countian and a friend of medicine."

Miss McMillan, in accepting the award, said she did so humbly, considering it one of the greatest honors she has received.

Members of the Moose gave both Miss McMillan and Dr. Gifford a standing ovation as they left the meeting.

34 CANDIDATES SEEK POSTS ON JR. HIGH TEAM

A squad of 34 candidates, completely lacking in lettermen, is working out daily in a battle for regular positions on the Gettysburg Junior High School football team.

Coach Rogers Herr is being assisted again by Luther I. Sachs Jr.

The local team is scheduled to play seven games, first of which will be with Delone at McSherrystown on October 1. Other games include: October 7, Boiling Springs, home; 14, Hershey, away; 22, Waynesboro, home; 29, Hanover, away; November 5, Chambersburg, away; 12, Mechanicsburg, home.

Squad Personnel

The squad is composed of the following:

Ninth Grade—Jack Crist, Ronald Fridinger, Ralph Heffner, Robert Hess, Gene Hoak, Gary Keefer, Fred Naugle, Glenn Naugle, William Scott, Charles Washington and Marlin Wherley.

Eighth Grade—John Arter, Rex Baltzley, Richard Cook, Ronald Crone, Ken Keefer, Donald Kimple, Fred Landesperger, Earl Little, Ronald Little, Douglas McCartney, Edward Nowicki, Arthur Re, John Sauter, Donald Smith, Glenn Sprecher, Edward Thomas and Jesse Thompson.

Seventh Grade—Roy Coldsmith, Tom Crist, Dwight Graham, Donald Kime, Gary Maitland and Robert Zhea.

An even dozen of the group were squad members last year. They include Jack Crist, Heffner, Hess, Scott, Washington, Baltzley, Cook, Earl and Ronald Little, Sprecher, Thomas and Thompson.

COLLEGE KIDS MAY CLASH IN GOLF FINALS

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 18 (AP)—A couple of nice young college kids today stood in the way of a meeting between two cold-eyed, toughened tournament golfers for the 53rd Amateur Championship of the United States.

And the way things have been going in this tournament of surprises, it could be the kids who will clash in the 36-hole final tomorrow.

The "Rookies" of this quartet of semi-finalists—probably the youngest ever brought together in this championship—are Bruce Cudd, 20, of Portland, Ore., who is about to start his sophomore year at Portland University, and Don Albert, 21, of Alliance, Ohio, a junior at Purdue.

Should Be Morey Vs. Littler

Their opponents in today's 36-hole semi-final matches are Dale Morey of Indianapolis, a 32-year-old ex-pro, now a sandpaper salesman, who plays Albert, and Gene Littler, 23-year-old Navy airman from La Jolla, Calif., who meets Cudd.

By any reasonable way of reckoning, it should be Morey against Littler in the final. The 36-hole route favors the experienced players.

Littler is, in fact, the only one of the Walker Cup players to survive two days of double rounds that wiped out nearly every "name" player on the list.

Sammy Urzetta, the 1950 winner and the ex-champion who lasted longest in this tournament, went out in the fifth round yesterday morning. So did Bill Campbell of Huntington, W. Va., and Jim Jackson of St. Louis, fellow members with Urzetta of the U. S. Walker Cup team, and John L. Morgan of the British Walker Cup forces.

Playoff Contests Scheduled Sunday

Only three baseball games are scheduled for Sunday afternoon in the fast fading baseball season.

Greenmount and Taneytown will clash at Greenmount in the second of their best-of-three series for the playoff title in the South Penn League. Taneytown won the opening game last week 2-0.

Emmitsburg, 8-2 winner over Blue Ridge Summit last Sunday plays the second of their best-of-three affair in the Pen-Mar circuit semi-finals at Blue Ridge Summit.

In the other semi-final series New Oxford will play at Union Bridge. Their scheduled opening game last Sunday was rained out.

LIST 193 CITIES AS LIKELY BOMB TARGETS IN U. S.

By WARREN ROGERS JR

WASHINGTON (AP)—In the wake of Russia's H-bomb announcement, the United States government has tagged 193 American cities as probable targets of atomic attack —70 of them as "critical."

But the list "does not purport to include all possible targets," the Federal Civil Defense Administration said in issuing it last night.

"For security reasons," it added, "certain targets that have national or military significance, including the atomic energy installations, have not been listed."

List of Targets

It was the first disclosure of areas officially designated as probable A-bomb targets. It supersedes a list adopted in 1952, sent to governors and local civil defense directors but never made public. The 1952 list was ordered destroyed.

All state capitals are named, but not as critical targets unless industrially important. Other cities having 50,000 population or more are classed in the non-critical group.

The 70 critical targets, embracing a population of 67,750,982, are population centers having at least 40,000 manufacturing workers and at least one city with a population of 50,000. Washington, D. C. was included because it is the nation's capital.

Call For Mobilization

The defense agency called for the entire country, inside and outside of the listed target areas, to mobilize for civil defense. No one area could cope alone with a successful attack, it said.

All possible targets for biological or chemical attack were not included, it said, because no part of the country is safe from this kind of warfare.

Bubblers Bow 7-6 To Hummelstown

Boiling Springs High School gridders dropped their second successive game of the young season Thursday evening when Hummelstown eked out a 7-6 win on the new Bubbler gridiron.

A short pass, Delp to Barry Dasher, produced the Bubbler score in the third period. Delp was thrown when he attempted to skirt end for the extra point.

Hummelstown came right back in the same period, when, after a pass interception, Nester finally went over from the 10. Seaman booted what proved to be the winning point.

Coach "Bud" Ecker's Bubblers were without the services of their ace back, Eddie Dasher, who was sidelined due to a leg injury.

GHS At Delone Tonight; Canners, 'Bolts At Home

Tonight at 8 o'clock the Gettysburg High Warriors and Delone Squires clash on the gridiron at McSherrystown in the 13th game of their series in which Delone holds an 8-4 edge.

The Squires suffered a jolt Thursday when Wib Noel, quarterback and co-captain, was dropped from the squad on the advice of a physician as the result of a head injury received in last week's game with Hanover. His place is expected to be taken by Dan Greenholt or Don McKendrick.

With the exception of Pete Baughman, end, who is nursing an ankle sprain, and Sam Staley and Don Smith, linemen, also recovering from injuries, the Warriors are in good condition for the tilt.

Upper county fans are looking forward to the clash between Biglerville and Carlisle on the Canners' field tonight. Biglerville will have to be at its best if it hopes to upset the Herd.

Littlestown opens its Laurel Conference campaign by entertaining West York at Littlestown. All games are listed to start at 8 o'clock.

REDLEGS BEGIN SEARCH FOR 5TH NEW MANAGER

CINCINNATI (AP)—There is a major league baseball manager's job open in Cincinnati but whoever gets it had better keep his suitcase packed.

When the Redlegs fired Rogers Hornsby yesterday he became the fourth pilot of the team to walk the plank in less than six full seasons.

His immediate predecessors—in the order of their firing—were Johnny Neun, Bucky Walters and Luke Sewell. None stayed as long as two full seasons and none stayed long enough to do much about lifting the Redlegs out of the National League's second division where the team has reposed since 1944.

Guessing Game

Who will be the next to try his hand in this birthplace of professional baseball?

The guesses are a dime a dozen today. But they were strictly guesses.

General Manager Gabe Paul said he was hopeful of signing a new manager before the World Series and added that he intended to talk to "a flock of candidates" during the next few days.

Meanwhile, Coach Buster Mills will be in charge of the Redlegs who open a series in Milwaukee tomorrow.

The guessers were having a field day. The name that seemed to be mentioned most often was that of Al Lopez, now manager of the Cleveland Indians.

There naturally were a lot of "ifs" connected with Lopez. He was being tabbed as a possible choice if he quits as Cleveland manager at the end of this season, as he has been rumored, or if he is relieved today. But they were of his duties there.

Hornsby, the stormy petrel of baseball, took his latest dismissal in stride.

"I believe I did a good job," he said shortly before leaving for Chicago where he said he would live.

Ken Raffensberger of the Redlegs started in organized ball in 1937 with Cambridge, Md., and led the Eastern Shore league in innings pitched with 298. He never has pitched that many innings pitched with 298. He never has pitched that many innings since.

Yankee Defeats Don't Fool Dressen Who's Busy Scouting American League Champions

By BEN PHLEGAR
AP Sports Writer

The New York Yankees haven't fooled Charley Dressen by losing one game to Cleveland and two out of three to the St. Louis Browns under his watchful eyes.

The Brooklyn manager, who has been doing some personal World Series scouting from a Yankee Stadium box near home plate, declared today:

"They look about the same as last year."

Not Predicting Win

As for his own ball club, Dressen said:

"I think we're better than last year."

But he added quickly:

"I don't say we're going to win. But if we can put the same fellows on the field we were using a couple of weeks ago and if we can get the pitching, I think we're better than they are."

A year ago the Yankees beat the Dodgers in a seven game series.

Dressen Watching

With Dressen in the stands the American League champions bowed 1-0 to Bob Lemon of Cleveland; split a twin bill with the Browns, losing 5-3 and winning 3-2, and lost to the Browns yesterday 7-1.

Against the Browns Casey Stengel used a flock of his Yankee second stringers.

"Our scouts don't get to see them very often," Dressen observed. "I was glad to get the chance. It looked to me like (Allie) Reynolds and (Ed) Lopat were taking it easy, just getting in some work."

Checking On Furillo

Dressen said he understood that Johnny Podres, one of his young pitchers who has been injured, was fit again and said he was going to see Carl Furillo on Saturday. Furillo, the league's leading hitter, has been out of action for two weeks with a broken finger.

"He's been working out," Dressen said. "He had some new X-ray pictures taken to see how it's healing and we'll talk things over Saturday."

Because of his self-imposed scouting duties, Dressen wasn't on hand to see his club win its 100th game of the season in St. Louis yesterday. A three-run ninth inning rally gave Carl Erskine his 20th victory by a 4-3 margin as Wayne Belardi singled home the tieing and winning runs.

Best Since 1944

No national league club has won 100 since the 1944 Cardinals. The last team in either league to win that many was the Boston Red Sox of 1946.

"I wanted to win 100," Dressen said. "I figured we'd need 98 to win the pennant, but I wanted to win 100. We'd have to win five out of seven to break the Brooklyn record and I don't know about that."

The Dodgers of 1942 won 104 and finished second.

In other action yesterday the Red Sox edged Detroit 2-1, Washington shaded Chicago 3-2 and Cleveland beat Philadelphia for the 19th time this year, 5-4 in the American League. Philadelphia smothered Chicago 16-4 in the National.

Terrible Ted Williams belted his 13th home run with a man aboard in the eighth inning for Boston's victory. The Tigers got five hits off Sid Hudson who worked the first eight innings and none off Ellis Kinder who pitched the ninth. Kinder's appearance, his 67th this year, set an American League record. The old mark of 66 was hung up by Ed Walsh of the 1908 Chicago White Sox.

Bob Porterfield of the Senators, who had won a total of 30 games in five major league seasons up to the start of the present campaign, became the first Washington pitcher in 20 years to win 21 games in one year.

A double by Jim Hegan followed by a sacrifice and a long fly produced the run Cleveland needed to beat the Athletics.

Curt Simmons of the Phils won his 14th game as his teammates battered five Chicago pitchers for 18 hits.

EXPECT 102,000 AT VILLANOVA, GEORGIA GAME

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Football fans in this area are getting a good look this weekend at just about every type of football on the 1953 menu.

Their first glimpse came last night as the 1952 National Football League champion Detroit Lions clashed in an exhibition with the up-and-coming Philadelphia Eagles at Municipal Stadium. The Eagles upset the Lions 28-17, before 44,000 fans.

Tonight, de-emphasized Temple plays a veteran-manned Albright at Temple Stadium which in the old days would have been a breather.

Expect 102,000 Saturday

Saturday night, Villanova gets a thorough testing against Georgia's Bulldogs before a possible sellout crowd of 102,000 at Municipal Stadium. A supermarket - sponsored sale of a huge block of tickets will aid attendance.

Last night's bill of fare was aimed at those who like pro ball and for those gridiron theorists who still maintain that two-platoon football is better than the recently reinstated two-way system of college ball.

Tonight's eclash is different because it's a study of a big school, hoping to find the winning path after a losing season, meeting the "small school" team loaded with capable veterans. This could draw 20,000 if weather conditions are right.

Unique Ticket Sale

And tomorrow night, the Villanova Wildcats start down a trail which will lead, they hope, to national ranking as a football power. With a slashing ground game and a line averaging 215 pounds per man, the Mainliners take on Wally Butts' air-minded Bulldogs, featuring passer Zeke Bratkowski.

This game has an unusual twist in that a good portion of the crowd will be there because they bought groceries. The school sold upwards of 60,000 tickets to the American Stores Co. which in turn gave one to every customer (who asked for one) with each purchase of groceries worth $10 or more.

No Security For 20 Fired Employes

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — The Louisiana Division of Employment Security will add to unemployment on Sept. 30 by firing 20 employes.

The division, which normally pays up to $25 weekly to persons it cannot place in jobs, will not be able to pay the 20 persons anything. Their employer—the state—is not covered by the Unemployment Act.

The firings will result from a budget cut by Congress in the division's operating fund.

Rainmaking Experts Set Decade Deadline

BRISBANE (AP) — Australia now leads most countries of the world in rainmaking research, says Dr. Edward G. Bowen, 42-year-old rainmaking expert of the Commonwealth Scientific and Industrial Research Organization (CSIRO). Dr. Bowen leads a team of 20 scientists that has made rain fall nearly 200 times.

He said to a reporter in Brisbane: "There is no doubt that we can make rain fall from clouds when we want it. The problem now is to make it fall over a large area at an economic cost. We hopt to solve that within the next decade."

8,497 Students Attended Gettysburg College Since 1879; 5379 Were Graduated

What has Gettysburg College accomplished, academically, during the past 75 years?

C. Paul Cessna, Alumni secretary, was asked this question. After a little research he announced the following:

Since 1878 the college graduated 5,379 men and women. In addition 2,118 others attended the college but did not complete the four-year course, making a combined student body of 8,497. Of those graduated the College is in contact with 4,916 and 2340 of the non-graduates, or a total of 7,256. NANTICOKE'S MAYOR GUILTY IN BRIBE CASE

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (AP)—Mayor Anthony Dreier of Nanticoke was convicted Wednesday night of soliciting and accepting a bribe to get a man appointed to his town's police force.

The mayor is free under $1,000 bail pending decision by the defense attorney to appeal. An appeal must be filed within five days.

A jury of eight women and four men deliberated more than seven hours before returning the guilty verdict in Luzerne County Criminal Court, where Judge Thomas M. Lewis presided.

Denied By Dreier

Specifically, Dreier was accused—and convicted—of soliciting and accepting a bribe from Ralph Farmer, now of State College. Farmer testified that Dreier had asked $250 for a police appointment but had taken $50 on account.

Dreier had denied the charge, said Farmer had never been to his home the day—July 2, 1950—that Farmer claimed the $50 was paid.

Wife Wipes Tears

The jury actually convicted Dreier on two indictments, one of which charged the mayor with soliciting the money for his vote as a member of city council and the second for soliciting the money for his influence as mayor.

Defense attorney Peter Kanjorski requested a poll of the jury after the verdict was announced and each juror replied "guilty on two counts in both indictments."

The 49-year-old, standing erect as the jurors spoke, showed no emotion, but his wife, Catherine, sitting in the courtroom, dabbed at her eyes with a handkerchief.

Attacks Leniency In Safety Measures

HARRISBURG (AP)—Earl C. Bohr, secretary-treasurer of the AFL Pennsylvania Federation of Labor, Thursday attacked what he termed "a watering-down" of a 1951 industrial safety law."

The law requires employers to provide gloves to workers who handle "sharp or rough surfaces or materials."

"The intent of the law is plain enough—the employer must furnish gloves to employes who handle rough materials," he said. "But the State Justice Department watered down the law in a ruling and it now seems that such gloves need not be provided in all cases."

Bohr made the statement in advance of a labor panel session as part of a two-day Pennsylvania industrial safety conference.

The English word "coney" is derived from the Dutch "konijn," rabbit.

WILEY ASKS FOR DEFENSE PACT WITH FAR EAST

NEW YORK (AP)—Sen. Wiley (R-Wis), declaring "our job in the Far East has just begun," called Thursday for a mutual defense arrangement with that area as soon as the nations of Southeast Asia are ready for it.

"We should use our great influence to help develop the concept of collective security in the Far East," said Wiley, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Security in the Far East is every whit as important to world peace as security in Western Europe or Latin America . . . What we need to do now — as soon as the countries of the Far East are ready to assume the obligations involved —is to move ahead with a third great pact for the Far East."

"Third" Pact

In speaking of a "third" pact, Wiley referred to the North Atlantic and the Rio treaties, in which this country pledged its mutual security with the nations of Western Europe and this hemisphere, respectively.

The senator, in a speech prepared for the National Foundry Assn., a trade group, also declared:

1. Russia is seeking to divide the Western Allies, and Americans should not help her by magnifying differences between, for example, the United States and Britain. "The fact that we disagree with respect to a particular policy," he said, "is not nearly so important as the fact that we continue to agree on our common goals and work together to achieve them."

"Internal Pains"

2. The Soviet world "is in the throes of an acute attack of totalitarian indigestion" whose "symptoms approach those of ptomaine poisoning." Wiley said that, if the free world does all it can to encourage this development, "the internal pains will continue to the point where the Soviet Union will be forced to disgorge her satellites and eventually revolution will break out within the mother country itself."

3. More information about atomic and hydrogen bomb development should be made public because, he said, "if the leaders in the Kremlin had the facts at their disposal, they would hesitate a long time before taking action that might provoke the United States to take retaliatory measures . . ."

Wiley declared that the United Nations, at the Korean Peace Conference due to start next month, will not be maneuvered into seating Communist China. But he cautioned against threatening U. S. withdrawal if Red China should be seated.

Blow To Peace

"Advocates of this extreme position should realize . . that if we are ever compelled to take such a drastic step it would probably sound the death knell of the United Nations and be a serious blow to the cause of world peace," he said.

Wiley's suggestion for a mutual defense treaty with the nations of the Far East was part of a four-point program he outlined to govern U. S. policy toward the Pacific area.

As other steps he proposed: A U. S. declaration that it will meet armed aggression anywhere with whatever action this country's interests require; continuation of financial aid; and efforts to convince the countries of Asia that their national aspirations can best be achieved on the side of the free world.

File Charges In Marine's Shooting

HARRISBURG (AP) — Charges of assault with intent to kill were filed Wednesday against Andrew J. Houser, 62, of Hershey, in the shooting of Anthony Wise, 25, a Marine home on leave.

House was taken to Dauphin County jail after appearing before Alderman Elizabeth Armstrong. Wise remained in serious condition at Harrisburg Hospital.

Another charge of assault with intent to kill is pending against Wise in an attack last April on Alan Hoffer, of Hershey, during the Hershey Chocolate Corp. strike.

Administration's Attitude On USSR Still "Put Up Or Shut Up"

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—Twice now within a month—and both times when the United Nations was in session, considering the Korean peace conference—the Russians have announced new atomic explosions.

This might have been coincidence. But, since the Russians know the value of psychological shock and could pick any day for their announcements, they can be assumed to have deliberately picked their time:

1. Perhaps to frighten the non-Communist U.N. members, when they were all together in New York, with news of Russia's developing ability to make atomic war. One of the announcements involved hydrogen bomb-making.

After Dulles Speech

2. Through fear, to make these U.N. members generally less willing to buck Russia and particularly Russia's idea of how the Korean peace conference should be held and who should take part.

The Eisenhower administration, although taking due note of Russia's hydrogen progress, apparently hasn't been softened a little bit in its hard attitude toward Russia.

Yesterday at the U.N., just a few hours before Russia's latest atomic announcement, Secretary of State Dulles lashed into Moscow with a major foreign policy speech. It was hardly more than a repetition of a speech made five months ago before there was any news of Russia's hydrogen progress.

Confirmed By U. S.

On Aug. 17, the U.N. General Assembly met in special session to choose its representatives to the Korean peace conference, with the United State insisting that if Russia was permitted at the peace conference it would have to be as a guest of the Communists, not on the U.N. side.

On Aug. 19, in the midst of the U.N. argument, Moscow announced it had achieved a hydrogen explosion.

The United States Atomic Energy Commission immediately confirmed the Russian explosion with the statement it had occurred Aug. 12. Moscow did not explain why it waited from Aug. 12 to Aug. 19 to make the news known.

Announced By AEC

On Aug. 23 the Russians had more atomic explosions. This was made known on Aug. 31 by the Atomic Energy Commission. Russia said nothing.

On Sept. 14, last Monday, the U.N. General Assembly, which had ended its special session in late August, came back into regular session. Once more it tangled over the Korean peace conference, with the Communists demanding:

That the Assembly reverse what United States position then—and let neutral nations and Russia sit in on the peace conference.

"Put Up Or Shut Up"

On Sept. 18, last night, Moscow announced more atomic explosions, probably the ones which the AEC said on Aug. 31 had occurred on Aug. 23. Moscow did not claim these latest explosions were of the hydrogen kind.

Five months ago, on April 16, Eisenhower, speaking for a government which had become exasperated with hearing Moscow talk of peace which it was blocking, expressed this country's policy on working out peace with Rusia.

What he said, if summarized in undiplomatic language, would be this: put up or shut up.

He phrased it more politely. He said this country would take Russian peace talk seriously when Moscow showed it wanted peace by giving roof, in deeds.
by giving proof, in deeds.

Dulles Speech Same

He gave a list of deeds he said would show Russian good faith: a Korean armistice and peace conference; unification of Germany; a peace treaty for Austria; and others.

Since April the Communists have met only one of Eisenhower's terms: they agreed to an armistice in Korea. But at this moment it is uncertain whether they will permit even the netx step: a Korean peace conference.

Yesterday, in his speech to the U.N., restating what Eisenhower had said in April, Dulles simply told the Russians that five months have not softened the American attitude toward Moscow.

He talked for 37 minutes. What he said could be boiled down to five words: put up or shut up.

DULLES LISTS STEPS TO EASE WORLD TENSION

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles declared Thursday that there can be no new world climate unless Russia contributes more toward this end.

In a policy declaration before the U. N. General Assembly, Dulles ranged over major world problems laying down terms on which tension might be eased.

"The United States is quite prepared to explore ways to end the present tensions," he said. "But what the United States does cannot achieve the required goal unless there is an equivalent response.

"Occasions are now imminent which permit, indeed require, the Soviet leaders to show more authentically their present intentions."

Then Dulles said:

"If the Soviet leaders are honest, they must recognize that, if there is to be a new world climate, they must contribute more to it than they have yet contributed."

He accused the Soviet Union specifically of "dilatory tactics" in Korea and of sponsoring rebel forces in Indochina, as well as failure to cooperate on the German and Austrian questions.

The secretary of state laid down the following points, which he said would "go far to end the present tension:"

1. Policies which will permit Korea to be united and free.
2. A peaceful solution of the Indochina problem.
3. Unity of Germany and a free Austria.
4. Policies which will enable Russia's neighbors to enjoy national independence.
5. Policies which will end the dedication of the Soviet Communist party to the violent overthrow of independent governments.

Blueprints And Photos To Be Taxed

HARRISBURG (AP) — Photographs and blueprints are subject to the state's new one per cent sales tax under a ruling of the Revenue Department.

A regulation issued Wednesday makes the tax applicable to all such services including charges for making photos, photostatic copies or blueprints out of materials furnished by the customer.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation's 1,200,000 railroad workers may get two cents, perhaps three cents, an hour more pay when new government living cost figures come out next week.

Rail management and union representatives reached agreement here yesterday on converting the contracts to the new statistics. The contracts have an "escalator" clause pegging pay to the government's cost of living index.

Many Outside Organizations Benefit From Extra Service Rendered By Local College

Gettysburg College is a center not only for collegiate activities but for a host of other organizational events as well.

Generally the college, in addition to providing facilities for organizations other than collegiate that meet there, also provides speakers and sometimes part of the membership, through the outside activities of faculty and students.

A high point of the year for junior and seniors of high schools throughout Adams and other nearby counties is the annual Career Conference, sponsored by the Adams County Schoolmen's Association, attended generally by more than 1,000 high school students.

Faculty Members Speak

At the career conference practically all of the college buildings are used; business men, professional leaders, teachers and others come to the college to tell the high school students details of the many careers that are open to young men and women. Frequent speakers at the career conferences are members of the faculty of the college. Sometimes they serve as discussion leaders. Usually the president of the college speaks to the visiting secondary school students and the college band or chorus gives a concert.

The college not only provides some of the leadership for the conference, but it also provides the facilities. Members of the faculty are members of the Adams County Schoolmen's Association, which meets a number of times at the college during the year. At those meetings the high school and elementary school officials discuss their problems, and secure the "college viewpoint" in making a better, more rounded and better oriented curriculum for all schools.

Also in connection with the Schoolmen's association, each summer a four-day session of schoolmen from four counties is held at the college for day-long discussions on all phases of education, led by outstanding educators from throughout the eastern United States.

Again the college provides the physicial facilities and part of the leadership.

Leadership School

Also held in June is the leadership school of the Central District of the YMCA which this year attracted 300 to the college for the annual event.

In September the Maryland Synod Luther League holds its sessions at the college and in August of this year the Pennsylvania Group of the National Association Educational Buyers—the purchasing agents of colleges and schools throughout the state—held its annual meeting at Gettysburg College.

In November the York Chapter of the National Association of Cost Accountants will hold its annual meeting at the college. Numerous other professional and business groups also used the college facilities for various events.

Serves In Other Ways

The college serves the community and state in many other ways. Its gymnasium serves as a site for various Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association basketball championship playoffs. Its various departments provide services for various industries and organizations. Its chemistry department has carried on research work for a number of industries—on a small scale, perhaps—but most helpful to the business concerned.

The English faculty of the college serves as the judges for the annual American Legion Essay contest held in Adams County, and the guidance department gives the college entrance tests that are part of the essay contest program.

The community concerts for years were held in Brua Chapel. The professor of military science and tactics and his staff are frequently called upon for duty as marshals of Gettysburg parades, or for MP duty at special occasions, such as Memorial Day.

All told the college has many functions, many of which are for the benefit of the community rather than the college.

PHYSICS DEPT. AT GETTYSBURG IS EXPANDED

The Department of Physics at Gettysburg College is offering a full program of study during the fall and spring semesters of the coming year.

Two courses in General Physics are being given, each designed to introduce to the student the fundamental laws, along with their applications, of mechanics, heat, sound, magnetism, electricity, and light. The first of these two courses, in which emphasis is placed upon applications not requiring involved mathemantical analysis, will have a registration of about 200 students. The second course emphasizes a much more rigorous presentation of the physics fundamentals and is taken by students whose future work will be in science and engineering.

Intermediate Courses

Intermediate courses are being offered in Mechanics, Electrodynamics, Modern Physics, Thermodynamics, Geometrical and Physical Optics, and Advanced Laboratory Physics. These courses develop carefully and rigorously the the physical principles introduced in the General Physics courses, and form the core of courses selected by most physics majors. Those students who intend to do advanced study in physics upon passing this program with distinction are well prepared to enter any graduate school of their choice. Other students who upon graduation do not want to go on to graduate school take over position of technical responsibility in industry, and in govern ment research laboratories.

Electronics Course

The department is offering a course in Electronics which covers the basic principles of operation of electronic tubes and circuits. Plans are being made to add an advanced electronics course to the physics curriculum by next year in which the applications of electronics to radio and industrial research equipment may be studied in some detail. To make this program possible equipment for the electricity and electronics laboratories costing more than $5,500 is being obtained.

In addition to the improvements being made in the electronics and electricity laboratories, facilities are being expanded for all of the other physics laboratories. Most important of these is the new General Physics laboratory for the science majors and students enrolled in the 3-2 Cooperative Engineering Program with Pennsylvania State College, for which equipment costing more than $5,000 is being obtained. This laboratory will be entirely new and will have only modern equipment.

Greek Department Offers Wide Variety Of Courses

DR. WM. F. SHAFFER,
Franklin Professor of Greek
Gettysburg College

For the academic year 1953-54 the Greek Department of Gettysburg College offers the following courses in the Greek language:

A course for beginners, in which an attempt is made to provide an adequate foundation for the study of the writings of the Ancient Greeks and at the same time to give a basic understanding of the nature and use of language in general and of the relation of Greek to the other languages which the student knows or may need to know.

An intermediate course, which continues the linguistic studies of the first course and proceeds to the reading of selected portions of the writings of Xenophon and Homer, with some attention being given to literary and cultural values of the selections being studied.

Course In Plato

A course in Plato, which includes the reading of the Apology of Socrates, the Crito, and selections from the Phaedo, from the Symposium, and from the Memorabilia of Xenophon. The course is intended to present the personality and thought of Socrates and to furnish a basis for a study of Plato's philosophy.

A course in the Greek of the New Testament, designed to introduce the student to the language as it was used in the Hellenistic Age and to give him some insight into the problems facing the translator and interpreter of the scriptures. Some attention is given, also, to the historical and cultural backgrounds of primitive Christianity.

An advanced course in Homer, including the reading of the text of the Iliad along with lectures, reports, and discussion on the linguistic, historical, and literary backgrounds of the Homeric poems and on the influence of these works in the creation of the poetic literature of the western world.

Course In Greek Tragedy

A course in Greek Tragedy, offering a detailed study of a limited number of plays, with special attention given to their artistic, religious, and philosophical values.

Additional courses in Greek Literature in Translation and Greek History will be given in case of sufficient demand. Courses of this type are intended primarily to afford some knowledge of the ancient world to students who cannot afford the time to study the original languages.

In addition to the formal work of the department its facilities will be made available, as far as possible, to scholars in other fields whose work leads them into subjects related to the classics. The work of the department will be integrated with that of the other departments and will be designed to give assistance to students with special interests and needs in fields such as teaching, the ministry, and graduate study.

Honor students in Greek and Latin are eligible for election into Eta Sigma Phi, an honorary classical fraternity, the program of which includes the presentation of prominent speakers, regular monthly meetings, social events, and occasional visits to other compuses for events of interest to students of Greek and Roman civilization.

Plan Expansion In Education Dept.

The Education Department of Gettysburg College continues its aim to provide for prospective high school teachers such courses as will emphasize the practical application of the principles and theories of Education and not just learning the theories, as is popular in some institutions. The Department also tries to give its students a good, sane, commonsense philosophy of Education.

There has been some consideration given to the preparation of elementary school teachers but that has not a advanced to a workable stage and no encouragement can as yet be given along that line.

Also, in the matter of graduate work for the Master's Degree, no progress can be reported pending decisions on the part of the State Department at Harrisburg. When those once come through, the high school teachers in the area will be notified.

Plans are underway for the construction of a sport stadium seating 150,000 spectators at Sao Paulo Brazil.

The Oatis Story

Oatis Lives Through What Reds Tell Their People Is A 'Trial'

(EDITOR'S NOTE: William N. Oatis, writer of the following article, is the Associated Press correspondent who was imprisoned for more than two years in Communist Czechoslovakia. In the series of which this is a part, he relates for the first time what happened to him.)

By WILLIAM N. OATIS
(Copyright 1953 by The Associated Press)

On Monday, July 2, 1951, I stood up in court in Prague, Czechoslovakia, and said I had spied for the United States Embassy.

I was not a spy. I was an Associated Press foreign correspondent, and the three men accused with me were my Czech employes.

And I was not testifying as I should have testified in a court in my own country—out of my own heart, aiming to tell "the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth."

I was testifying as the Communist secret police wanted me to testify. I was following, in substance and sometimes word for word, a script they had written for me and rehearsed me in.

This script, prepared during my 70 days' interrogation and completed perhaps 10 days before I took the witness stand, was called a protocol. It consisted of questions for court and prosecutor to ask me, and answers for me to give them.

That morning, we four went on trial before the Senate of the State Court at Pankrac Prison, in southeast Prague.

AP Artist Ed Gunder sketches scene as William N. Oatis, after 42 hours without sleep, prepared to sign a "confession" in Prague jail.

Under Guard

We were brought there after breakfast from the prison where we had been interrogated. (I did not find out till after the trial where that prison was.)

We made the trip in a green van, each locked in a blind compartment with guards crowding the aisle. Other guards with submachineguns watched in a courtyard as we were led into Pankrac Prison.

We passed through a subterranean corridor and upstairs to a row of separate cells. I waited in my cell, smoking nervously and guarded by a tall uniformed policeman with a big pistol.

Then we crossed a hall and entered the high-ceilinged courtroom by a side door. We must have looked quite decent, for supposed criminals. Before our journey, we had been shaved and had changed from prison uniform into street clothes. (I wore the dark blue suit and brown bow tie I had on when arrested April 23.) But each of us had his guard.

I scanned the courtroom for familiar faces. I saw none of my friends. (Only after my release this year did I learn that Vice Consul Richard G. Johnson and Private Secretary Mary Horak of the U. S. Embassy were in the back of the room.)

I recognized two Czechoslovak press officers — Dr. Rudolf Popper of the Ministry of Information and Bedrich Rumge of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs. They sat stolidly in the press section.

Packed House

I noticed there, also, two Communist correspondents I had seen in my 10 months of freedom in Prague — an effeminate Irishman from the party-line Telepress agency and a Negro girl whose affiliation I did not know. They were grinning broadly at my plight.

Upstairs and downstairs, the house was packed. Specially chosen factory workers, cooperative farmers and government clerks got passes to such trials.

We four sat down, separated by our guards, on a bench facing the bar. I had earphones to catch simultaneous English interpretation of all Czech testimony; the interpreters were in booths near the bar. And near me sat another interpreter to serve as intermediary between me and the court when I should testify.

Now the judges entered, four men and one woman in black robes, and the trial began.

State Prosecutor Josef Urvalek, also in black, read the indictment. It called The Associated Press a spy agency serving the United States in a "war against the Soviet camp of peace." It said all AP bureau chiefs in Prague since 1948 had been spies. It charged my employes and me specifically with espionage.

Presiding Judge Jaroslav Novak then called me to stand in the horseshoe-shaped witness stall. He referred to the indictment and asked, "Do you feel guilty?"

The Script Begins

"Yes, I do," I said. Seventy days of questioning had taught me that was the right answer.

The judge had a bulky document before him. It was my protocol. And now I got the first question in it: The prosecutor asked me to identify a small card introduced into evidence.

I said it was my 1944 off-duty pass from the Japanese language school of the Army Military Intelligence Service at Ft. Snelling, Minn.

After a few unprogrammed questions on my birthplace and such, I explained in answer to protocol questions that I had gone from Ft. Snelling to a similar school at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor and, after a year's study there, had got out of the Army.

(I studied language, not espionage, and I was not in the Military Intelligence Service, but on the detached enlisted men's list.)

Fact vs. Fiction

I said that Lt. Col. George L Atwood, U. S. military attache in Prague, had been in the Ann Arbor school while I was there but that we had not met. I testified that I got acquainted with him in Prague and had "espionage meetings" with him.

(Actually I was speaking of occasions when I had gone to him for news or background information on military matters in Czechoslovakia.)

I confessed I had gathered "espionage news" from my employes, other Czechs and diplomats, and gave details. (I was talking about reports on military, economic and political subjects not published in Czechoslovakia. The police had sold me the idea that all this was espionage material.)

I said that the bartender at the Alcron Hotel in Prague once had interpreted for me the Czech conversation of two government chauffeurs talking at the other end of the bar, and that it had to do with the arrest of a public official.

(This was a fiction built up around a kernel of fact and transferred from the bartender's protocol to mine: In reality, ONE chauffeur had told HIM about the official; the chauffeur had left the bar before I came and heard the report from the bartender.)

I testified that I got reports from a man using the name of Antonin Kratochvil and claiming to work in the prime minister's office.

(I knew he was an agent of the secret police but said nothing about this. I was playing their game in the hope of a short sentence.)

The Verdict

That afternoon my three employes related they had helped me get unofficial reports.

They also said they knew a Czech refugee, Vladimir Komarek, who sometimes returned illegally to his homeland. It was testified that he was spy and that an accomplice of his had shot and killed a policeman.

(I had never met Komarek, and I insisted on this throughout the trial.)

Next day, 11 witnesses testified. One said he had killed a policeman with a pistol Komarek gave him.

Another, Jan Stransky, told how he had given me a letter for his former employer, Russell Jones of the United Press, noting his suspicious that a Czech in that office was a police spy.

(I carried this letter to Jones, not knowing what was in it.)

Nearly all the other witnesses testified they had given unofficial information to me or my employes. Their testimony was both fact and fable — like mine and my employes'.

Prosecutor and defense counsel spoke. (My lawyer said I was guilty but there were alleviating circumstances.) And the next morning we four were all convicted. I got 10 years, Svoboda 20, Woydinek 18 and Muntz 16.

A big black sedan took me to Ruzyne Prison, five miles west of Prague. On the way, I noted a big car just ahead with a man and boy in it—Col. Atwood and his young son.

Gettysburg Offers Bible Education

The Bible Department at Gettysburg College aims to acquaint its students with Biblical History, to increase their appreciation of Biblical Literature and to supply them with the basic facts of religion.

"We would have our students see how the Hebrews wrote and interpreted history. We would have them see the varied and excellent literary forms in the Scriptures. We want them to trace the moralization of the idea of God—to note the shifting of emphasis from particularism to universalism, from ritualism and ceremonialism to ethical and social concepts, from externalism to inwardness. The courses include a study of history and of literature and of the origins and development of religious truth in preparation for the advent of Christ. Finally, the emphasis is upon knowing the life, teaching and work of Christ," said Dr. William C. Waltemyer, head of the Department.

ALUMNI GROUP FOURTH OLDEST IN COUNTRY

Gettysburg College's Alumni Association, one of the oldest in the country, was founded in 1835 when the graduates of 1834 and 1835 met in the chapel room of the building at Washington and High Sts. Only Williams College (1821), Bowdoin (1825), Princeton (1826) and Rutgers (1833) had established alumni organizations prior to 1835.

The Alumni Association, as it is known today, started in 1928 when Rev. H. H. Beidleman, class of 1912, was elected president. A year later Charles W. Beachem, class of 1925, became the first Alumni office. The Alumni Association set up the Alumni Council in 1930 and the association has continued to function under this setup.

Clyde E. Gerberich, class of 1913, was elected president of the association in 1932. The Loyalty Fund was launched in March of the following year.

Secretary Beachem Dies

R. C. Dougherty, class of 1900, was elected to head the association in 1935 and it was during his term that the untimely death of Charles Beachem occurred (January, 1937). During this crisis College President Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson and President Dougherty invaded the Mathematics Department and selected C. Paul Cessna to carry on the work that had been so well organized by Mr. Beachem.

Dr. C. L. S. Raby, class of 1909, was named to the presidency in 1938 and designated his vice president, Horace G. Ports, class of 1925, as chairman of the Loyalty Fund. Each year since then this practice has been followed. Mr. Ports succeeded Dr. Raby in 1941 to be followed at three year intervals by William H. Patrick, class of 1916; Rev. F. R. Seibel, class of 1926; John A. Apple, class of 1919, and in June of this year, R. W. "Jerry" Hoch.

Represented On Board

Since 1929 the Board of Trustees has underwritten the expense of the Alumni Office and has given to the alumni representation on the Board, voting power in the Association without dues and a free subscription to the Alumni Bulletin, issued four times a year. Additional activities such as maintaining records and addresses of all alumni, circularizing members of all clubs and class for meetings and reunions, supervising Homecomings and special gatherings on the campus, publicizing the college at church gatherings and at High School College nights combined with salaries, equipment and other maintenance expenses have brought the budget of the Alumni Office to the sizable figure of $21,000 annually.

Winter Feeding Of Birds

Area With Abundance Of Birds Has Fewer Insects And Weed Seeds

Editor's Note: The following account on winter feeding of birds is abstracted and abridged from "An Introduction to Bird Study" by George E. Grube. Permission has been granted to print it in The Gettysburg Times only. Reproduction of any part of this article without permission of the author is prohibited.

By GEORGE E. GRUBE
Instructor In Biology
Gettysburg College

The greatest incentive and the greatest reward for feeding birds in winter is personal enjoyment. The activity, songs, and beauty of wild birds bring life, charm, and color into the neighborhood. Aside from esthetic values there are numerous economic values, too. Certainly an area with an abundance of birds will have fewer insects and weed seeds than a birdless area.

Certain handicaps involved in winter feeding must be mentioned. The artificial assemblage of overpopulations may be detrimental to the birds themselves. Concentrations of birds expose them to the disease transmission hazard. This is especially prevalent when birds are enticed to feed on trays or on the ground where they may be exposed to the droppings of other birds. Another drawback is that there may be assembled in a restricted area, more individuals than the natural food resources will support. In this event any cessation or interruption to feeding may result in starvation of the birds which learned to depend upon the winter feeding station.

Feeding Is Rewarding

Feeding is most rewarding if it is started early in the fall. It is time to begin now. The fall migration is now getting into full swing and some passing migrants may be tempted to stay if they find an abundant food supply. Furthermore, those birds that normally spend the winter in our area must find the feeding station before they establish their normal feeding routes. Because the natural supply of food is limited in winter, the routes they normally establish are long and keep the birds spread over a wide area. Therefore, once established on their routes, relatively few birds will find the feeder.

Species which may be lured to feeding stations may be divided into two general groups: 1. Those which normally feed on insects, like the woodpeckers, kinglets, nuthatches, and creepers. 2. Those which normally feed on seeds, such as the English sparrow (which is a weaver-finch and not a true sparrow, son sparrow, goldfinch tree sparrow, junco, evening grosbreak, cardinal, and other members of the sparrow family.

Recommended Foods

Foods recommended for the insect-eaters include suet or raw beef fat, nut meats, peanuts, peanut butter, doughnuts, and other fatty foods. Suet, peanut butter, and similar substances should be placed in a small wire (one half inch square mesh) pocket and attached to a post or tree so that crows or squirrels will not be able to carry away large chunks. Smaller fatty foods may be placed with grains provided for the seed-eating birds. When cracking nuts for birds leave the meats in the cracked shell They enjoy picking the meat from the shell.

For seed-eating species almost any kind of grain is suitable. "Chick-feed" is the most convenient and cheapest. Sunflower seeds are relished by most grain-eaters and many insect-eaters as well. Grains nutmeats and the like are best provided from a self-feeder made of a bin which opens to a shallow and narrow tray on the bottom. Such a feederrequires less attention and hence the birds will be disturbed less frequently. The narrow tray minimizes the possibility of birds leaving their droppings on the tray thus reducing the hazard of disease transmission at the feeding station.

Unwelcome Guests

English sparrows and starlings may prove to be unwelcome guests at your free handout station. These birds are pests and should rightly be unwelcome. But they serve a very important function. Their numbers almost insure that they will be the first to discover the feeding station. When one bird has found it that bird will be observed by others and so on until a multitude of birds find their way to the station. The pest species attract the more desirable birds so don't be too short-tempered with them.

Place the feeder in an open place but not more than 25 or 30 feet from the nearest trees or shrubs. Birds do not mind feeding in the open but they will feel more secure if they may quickly retreat to a protective height. There they may wait until the family cat or any other potential enemy ambles on out of sight. Feeders may be placed on window sills if you want to watch the birds while you work about the house. Don't be alarmed if a cardinal decides to attack the window pane. He merely sees his reflection in the window and has decided that he wants to drive that good-looking fellow away!

India's Nehru Takes Slap At Uncle Sam

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru slapped at the United States and her Latin American allies Thursday for keeping India out of the Korea peace conference "against the joint will of Europe and Asia."

Speaking at the opening of a foreign affairs debate in Parliament, the Prime Minister asserted, however, that India had "absolutely no desire to participate in the talks.

Nehru avoided a direct stand on Red China's recent demands that India and other countries that sent no troops to Korea be given seats at the parley but he declared: "The only real question now is whether neutral countries should be represented."

Neutrals he said, could help in bringing about "a certain atmosphere."

DEMOCRATIC CONGRESSMAN COMMENDS GOP

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Pennsylvania Republican party was "congratulated" Wednesday by a Keystone State congressman, and a Democrat at that.

Rep. Herman Eberharter, veteran Pittsburgh Democrat, took note of state GOP plans to have President and Mrs. Eisenhower arrive in a horse and buggy at the birthday party planned for the President at Hershey next month.

In a statement Wednesday, the congressman said:

"The crowning touch is the plan to have the President and the first lady make their entrance into the party in a horse and buggy, with the President at the reins.

"We've always said the Republicans as a party were anxious to turn the country back to the horse-and-buggy age, and now we'll have the opportunity to see what a dashing picture the President would make in such a Republican parade back to yesterday.

"I suggest the Republicans use some of the $600,000 they intend to collect at the Hershey party to print campaign posters of the President in his horse and buggy—as the new symbol of the GOP."

Another Democratic congressman, from Missouri, said he was a "little surprised" yesterday to receive an invitation to the party.

Congressman Frank Karsten (D-Mo), a ready critic of the Republican administration, said he declined the invitation to purchase 20 dinner tickets at $100 each.

RUSSIA CLAIMS "SUCCESSFUL" TEST OF BOMB

By RICHARD KASISCHKE

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet government today claimed successful tests of "new type" atomic bombs in recent weeks but said it still wants an international ban on mass destruction weapons.

The announcement by the Soviet news agency Tass said the blasts occurred "in the last few weeks" but gave no details of the "new type" weapons tested.

(In Washington, a spokesman for the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission said the Russian announcement "merely confirms" the AEC's statement Aug. 31 that a fission—atomic—explosion of about the same power as recent U. S. tests in Nevada had taken place Aug. 23 in Russia. The previous statement added the explosion "would appear to be part of a series."

Speculate On Timing

(The American spokesman emphasized again that the Aug. 23 explosion was a "fission," or atomic, blast. Observers in Washington concluded from this that the Soviet explosion apparently did not involve the thermonuclear reactions of a hydrogen bomb.

(Moscow's announcement stirred speculation at United Nations headquarters in New York that it was timed to pave the way for new Soviet disarmament proposals to the U. N. Assembly, which has just opened its eighth annual session in New York. These were not expected to differ materially, however, from previous Russian disarmament offers the United Nations has repeatedly rejected.)

The Soviet statement said that although the Soviet Union "is able to give attention to the production of atomic weapons," it would pursue a policy of attempting to reach agreement with other nations on arms cuts and the prohibition of mass destruction weapons under strict international control.

"Peaceful Uses"

Asserting that Russia considers putting atomic energy to peaceful uses its most important task, the statement said the Soviets are "carrying out the task of employing atomic energy for industrial purposes."

The AEC spokesman in Washington indicated the commission had found nothing additional of interest to add to its Aug. 31 statement. At that time, the AEC said it would make no further announcement about Russian tests "unless intelligence indicates information of greater interest."

"We are standing on the Aug. 31 statement," the U. S. spokesman said last night.

A discussion took place concerning purchasing shirts for the members of the Auxiliary bowling team of the Littlestown Women's League and inquiries will be made and a decision will be made later. COUNSEL FOR CHRISTIANS

Titus 2:1-3:14

Memory Verse: Let our people learn to apply themselves to good deeds, so as to help cases of urgent need, and not to be unfruitful. Titus 3:14

"By their fruits you shall know them." The thought in this familiar word by Jesus appears frequently, in various forms, in Saint Paul's letter to Titus. It was then and is now good counsel to Christians, and an acid test of the genuineness of their profession of Christ.

Conditions in the church on the island of Crete prompted Paul to write to Titus. He was one of Paul's converts and was the superintendent of the church which may have been founded by native Cretans some of whom were in Jerusalem on the day of Pentecost. Paul had been with Titus and left him there to "amend what was defective." From Paul's description there was much to be amended. The inhabitants of the island had a reputation for immorality and other vices. One of their own nationality at one time said, as quoted by Paul, "Cretans are always liars, evil beasts, lazy glutton." (Titus 1:12). So young Titus had his work cut out for him. Paul, as usual, was a wise and helpful counsellor.

"Show yourself in all respects a model of good deeds." For Titus to begin with himself was essential. The best teaching is by example. A model life has more power than the mere words if ever so eloquently spoken. Good behavior must accompany instruction if teaching is to be effective.

But expounding the truth is important. The Cretans confused some of their pagan ideas with the Gospel as preached by Jesus and so vigorously presented by Paul. It is essential at all times to hold to the truth. Titus knew that but Paul emphasized it. The old ideas that one had first to adopt certain Jewish rites before he could become a Christian still plagued the Cretans. And there were problems of immorality to deal with. We are not yet free from some of them. But they are not condemned now as they were when the first century Christians had to contend with them.

Paul put in a plea for good citizenship and neighborliness. Obey the law. Respect the authorities. "Avoid quarreling." How these admonitions fit into our modern church and community life! No wonder these letters from the great Apostle found their way into the inspired book, which has become the guide book for the generations. We are aware that the Bible message is of a spiritual nature. The problem of sin and the way of salvation through Christ are central.

But it is also profitable for instruction in all the areas of human life. Paul's views were those of a citizen of the world. Perhaps he was unconscious of it but in writing to Titus about the situation at Crete he was giving profound counsel to all mankind.

Very often in his writings Paul pled for good deeds. He did so to Titus. "I desire you to insist on these (practical) things," he writes. The fervent plea of Christ for a fruitful life, and Paul's earnest counsel to the same effect, has yielded results. While there is still much to be deisred Dr. Kenneth Scott Latourette can write in the current number of the Christian Herald: "In spite of the wars of the present century, and in part because of them, never has mankind known projects for relief on so large a scale. Much of this is frankly in the name of Christ. Never before have the churches put forth efforts of such magnitude to alleviate distress."

GOP ASKS IKE TO MAKE REPLY TO DEMOCRATS

CHICAGO (AP)—Republican leaders pressed President Eisenhower today to stop off in Chicago to answer Democratic charges that the Republican farm program has gone sour and that U.S. allies are being confused by American foreign policies.

Eisenhower is due to stop over here briefly Saturday to pick up his son, John, and family on the way back to Washington from his vacation in Colorado.

Sen. Ferguson, keynoter of today's opening session of a Republican rally, said in an interview he hopes to persuade the President to take out enough time to give his own reply to charges fired at the Republicans here earlier in the week by Adlai E. Stevenson and former President Truman.

Ferguson Fires Away

The Republicans, who had advertised this conference their answer to Democratic blasts, found themselves with only second string speakers after GOP National Chairman Leonard W. Hall became ill with a virus and couldn't attend.

Called suddenly into the breach, Ferguson blasted at Stevenson as being "soft toward communism" and offering "appeasement" to Moscow in the 1952 Democratic nominee's proposal for showdown negotiations with the Russians on a non-aggression pact and a disarmament agreement.

"Governor Stevenson is urging us to meet at every opportunity whether it be on the Communists' terms or our own," Ferguson declared. "This shows a vast misunderstanding, such a lack of comprehension of the nature of communism that it is almost unbelievable."

Conference Caused Trouble

Ferguson told a news conference, yesterday that "99 per cent of the troubles that face America and the world today were produced at the conference tables where sat the masters of the Kremlin and those who follow this gullible philosophy."

He said that while he is not foreclosing all negotiations with Moscow, "The only time to sit down at the conference table is on our own terms, not theirs."

Harney

HARNEY—The Harney Boys' 4-H Club held their monthly meeting at the home of Gene Moose recently. The business meeting was called to order by the president, Albert Angell. Due to the absence of the treasurer there was no treasurer's report.

The County Campfire which was held at Western Maryland College campus on Friday, August 28, was discussed. Plans were made for those planning to show at at the Timonium State Fair September 2-12. All record books have to be up-to-date and handed in by September meeting. After the business meeting, demonstration was given by Gene Moose on "How to fit and show a hog." Refreshments were served.

Superman Can Fly; Little Boys Can't

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Eight-year-old Larry King posed on his second floor fire escape, adjusted the silk scarf around his head and spread the towel which hung, cape-like, down his back.

Then he took off.

"I thought the air would get under my towel and float me down like it does Superman," he said tearfully.

Then, in his hospital bed, he peeked down at the plaster casts covering his broken wrists and said:

"Tell the kids that Superman may be able to fly but little boys can't."

Gettysburg College Opens 122nd Term

President Langsam's Message

THE Legislature of this Commonwealth bestowed upon Gettysburg College a charter in 1832 on the ground that the institution "promises to exert a salutary influence in advancing the cause of liberal education." To this purpose we dedicate ourselves anew as Gettysburg enters upon its one hundred and twenty-second academic year.

Believing with Daniel Webster that "whatever makes men good Christians makes them good citizens," Gettysburg will continue to stress the relevance of Christianity to every field of human endeavor. In an atmosphere of faith, through a first-rate Faculty and Staff, and with an adequate physical plant which is constantly being improved, Gettysburg will strive to help in the development of men and women leaders for the United States of tomorrow.

Our efforts will be the more effective if, in their implementation, we can continue to count on the close and friendly cooperation of the community with which we have grown through the years. "Three helping one another bear the burden of six," wrote George Herbert back in 1651. His words are still true today, three centuries later. With Community, Church, and College working together, our combined potentialities for good are almost limitless. Let us develop those potentialities

Gettysburg College Opens 122nd Year; Faculty Grows From 5 To 90

Valuation Of Property Now Over $5 Million

BEGINNING a new chapter in the history of Gettysburg College, the oldest Lutheran College in America opened its doors for the 122nd consecutive year on Thursday with the finest facilities and most extensive curriculum it has ever offered.

A far cry from the spring of 1832 when a charter was granted to Pennsylvania College, the institution now counts among its physical equipment more than 25 buildings valued at more than $5,000,000 at the disposal of its student body of nearly 1,200 young men and women.

Faculty Grows to 90

The original staff of five professors that served the institution which performed the function of a preparatory school for the older Lutheran Theological Seminary on the "hill" has grown to about 90.

"The educational services and academic reputation of Gettysburg College have kept pace with its material progress," the official college bulletin points out and adds that the institution is fully accredited by all the important educational agencies.

Its nearly 9,000 graduates have among their number leaders in all the professions and in the business world.

Sought School's Transfer

The college opens this fall on the 100th anniversary of a serious movement on the part of a number of officials of the institution and of the Lutheran Church to move the college from Gettysburg to a nearby town or city. But Thaddeus Stevens rose to champion the cause of the community in which he had formerly resided and when the vote of the trustees was taken, there was a 10 to four decision to keep the college here and that stand never was upset although talk of moving the school out of the community persisted for several decades.

Now Gettysburg College, as it was named in 1921, is a long-established institution in the Gettysburg community, closely knit by many ties to this historic shrine where it was established.

Had One Building

In its earliest days the college was housed in a single building, now a private residence, at the corner of Washington and High Sts. The first building on the campus was Pennsylvania Hall, "Old Dorm," which served as a hospital during the battle in 1863 and again was used as a hospital when the old veterans returned to Gettysburg for their 75th anniversary and final reunion in 1938.

The great period of building on the enlarged campus occurred during the last 30 years and major structures erected in that period include the library, Breidenbaugh Science Hall, the Eddie Plank Memorial gymnasium, and Hanson Hall. Weidensall Hall and Brua Chapel were enlarged and the new Christ Chapel was completed.

Erection of the new chapel, completed during the past summer on a site that was once a part of the Gettysburg Academy Campus and once served the townfolk as a winter skating rink, is the most recent major building accomplishment.

Serve In All Wars

During the Civil War, students shouldered muskets and went off to war and every war since then has found Gettysburg College contributing leaders and fighting men to aid the cause of their nation.

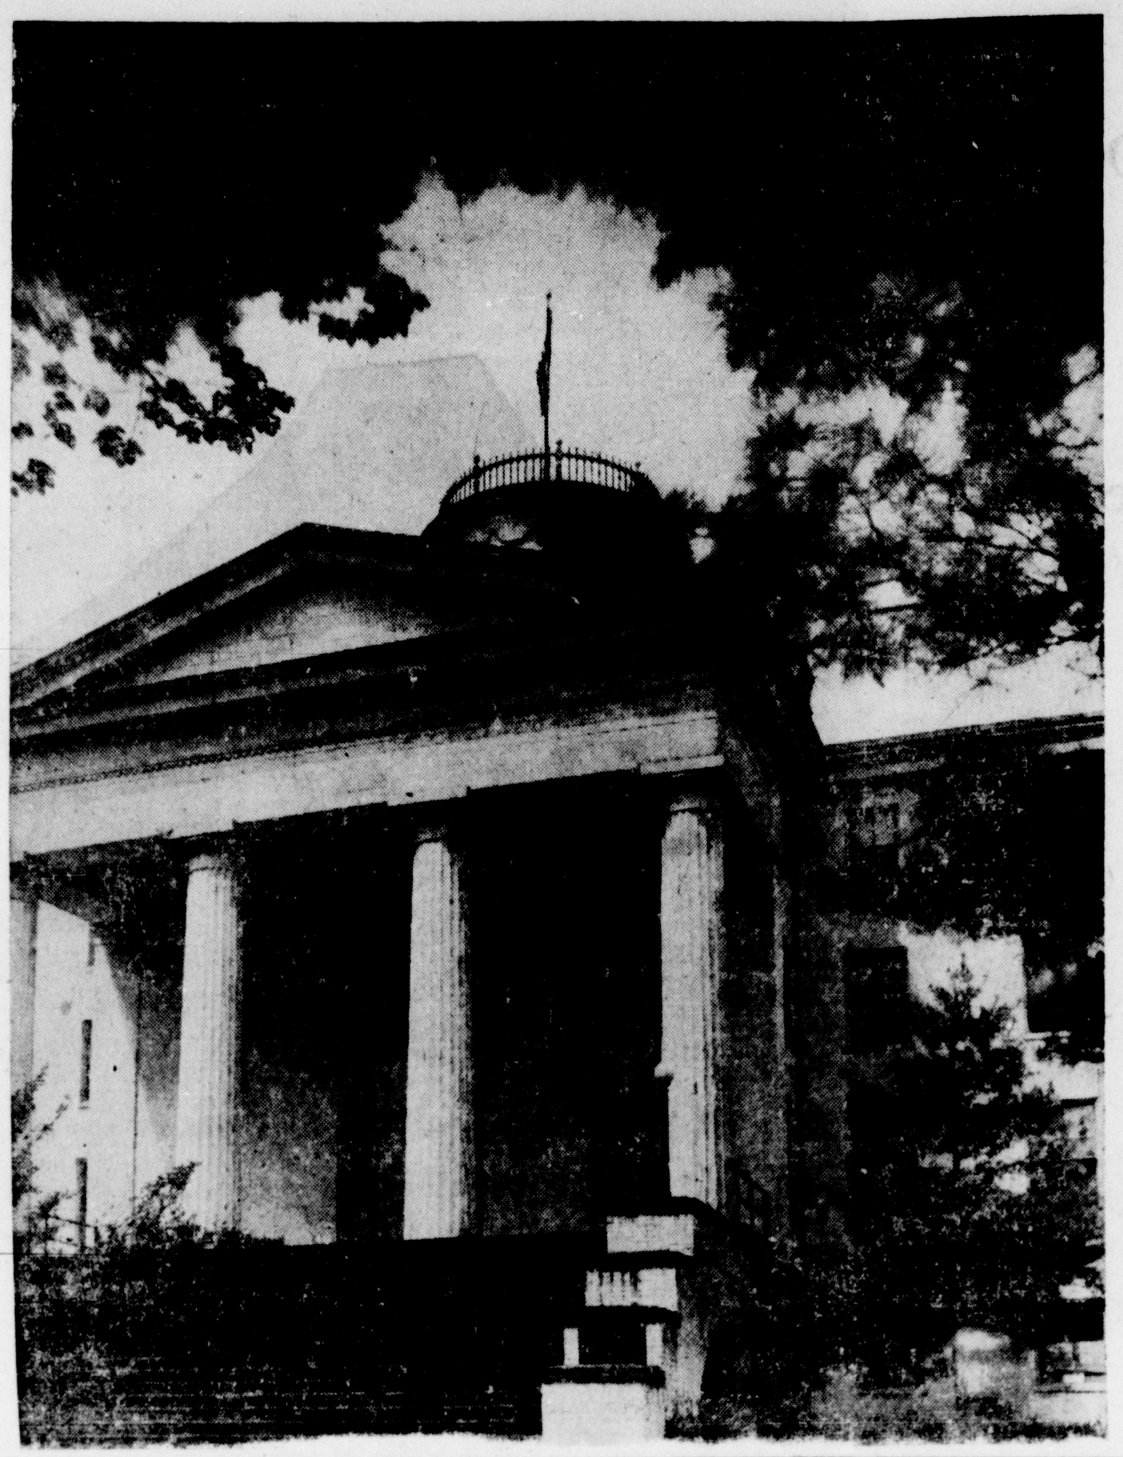

In the Second World War more than 1,600 alumni served in the armed forces, more than 75 per cent of them as commissioned officers. An explanation of the latter figure lies in part in the fact that Gettysburg has the oldest Reserve Officers Training Corps unit in any private college in the country. Since its formation in 1916, the ROTC unit provided basic military training for more than 2,500 men and gave Reserve commissions to more than 500 of them.

Trained Air Force Cadets

For two years of World War II the college made available its facilities as a preliminary training school for the Army Air Force and nearly 2,000 men were trained here. The ROTC program at the college has been expanded to include an Air Force ROTC established in 1947.

And now with a campus radio station, expanding arts and music departments and an enlarged curriculum on the field of social relations, the college is keeping step with modern educational trends and at the same time holding steadfast to its traditional endeavor "to train men and women as leaders who will preserve this civilization with its emphasis on the dignity of the individual as a being created in the image of God."

Loyalty Fund Drive Will Be Launched On October 3

Under the leadership of William H. B. Stevens '26, of 410 North Third St., Harrisburg, the 1953-54 endeavor of the Gettysburg College Loyalty Fund will be launched on Saturday, October 3, at 9:30 a.m.

Mr. Stevens, a member of the Latham-Stevens Insurance Co., is vice president of the General Alumni Association and chairman of the Loyalty Fund Committte. For a number of years he has served his Alma Mater as representative on the Athletic Council and is now a member of the Advisory Committee on Athletics, the successor to the Athletic Council. In June he relinquished his duties as chairman of the Finance Committee in which capacity he rendered invaluable service to the Alumni Association.

Sixty-four class agents will be invited to attend the meeting on October 3. Each class elects its own agent who is responsible for furnishing information and appeals for participation to every member of the class. It is expected that these agents will find valuable assistance in the experiences of fellow agents and provide, for the committee, definite plans for the campaign.

In addition to the class agents the Executive Committee of the Alumni Association, which is the Fund Committee, will attend the meeting along with the Alumni Club representatives to the Alumni Council.

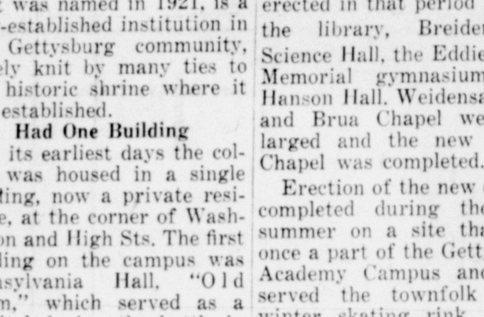

Following the meeting the class agents will be asked to prepare a letter to send to all classmates. This letter will be duplicated by the alumni office staff and will be mailed back to the agents for signature. A hand book on the Loyalty Fund results of the past together with a comparative list of the results achieved by other colleges will accompany each letter.

A summary of the decisions reached at the meeting will be sent to those agents who, because of distance and other circumstances, will be unable to attend the meeting.

Gettysburg Lutheran Seminary Opens 128th Year

Dr. Harry F. Baughman

President Baughman's Message

FOR the one hundred twenty-eighth year the Gettysburg Lutheran Theological Seminary has opened its doors to classes of students preparing for the Christian ministry. Revolutionary changes in the social, industrial and economic life have taken place during this period. Many institutions and customs have passed entirely away. In the midst of the "change and decay" of the world the Church has stood as the embodiment of the Abiding Presence of Him Who changes not. Gettysburg Seminary takes its place in the ranks of those agencies and institutions, contributing to the on-going life of the Church. Its strength and stature have increased with the passing years. Its graduates have gone out in increasing numbers to serve the Church at home and abroad. As this new academic year begins the Seminary, welcoming one of its largest classes, extends greetings to all students coming to its campus, and to the campus of the college. Its faculty and students pray for the blessing of God upon both institutions, as they engage in their important tasks.

Gettysburg Battlefield Is Largest And Most Beautiful Historic Shrine In Nation

By DR. J. WALTER COLEMAN
Battlefield Superintendent

The Gettysburg National Military Park is one of eleven similar areas administered by the National Park Service of the United States Department of Interior. There are 173 areas in the National Park Service of which 70 have been set aside by proclamation or Act of Congress chiefly for historic reasons. They include all phases of American history from Indian pueblos and Spanish missions in the southwest to the sites of early English, Spanish and French colonies in the east. There are birthplaces of three presidents and 20 areas that mark the site of battles representing the French and Indian War, the Revolution, War of 1812, and the Civil War.

Shortly after the Battle of Gettysburg, the turning point in the Civil War, ended July 3, 1863, representatives of some of the units that had taken part made plans to place markers at suitable positions on the Battlefield. Soon the Memorial Association was formed and parcels of land here and there were purchased in order to preserve the scene as it was at the time of the battle.

DR. J. WALTER COLEMAN

Established In 1895

This continued for about thirty years as it did on other major battlefields when the Association officials realized more and more that these memorials could be more efficiently handled by the Federal Government. This area, accordingly, was set up by Act of Congress as a National Military Park in 1895. The bill was sponsored by Senator Daniel Sickles of New York who as a general had suffered the loss of a leg in the battle here. The Association turned over its lands to the United States and additional lands were acquired by purchase. Gettysburg is recognized as the largest and most beautiful historic shrine in the country.

It should be remembered that the entire vicinity of Gettysburg, including the town, is part of the battlefield. This area is roughly 16,000 acres, 25 square miles in extent, of which 2,548 acres have been included in the National Military Park. There are about 2,500 markers and monuments in the Park ranging in size from small flank markers to the massive Pennsylvania Memorial.

400 Cannon On Field

Along the 30 miles of roads that have been laid out, 400 Civil War cannon of the type used during the battle have been erected on metal carriages. Exhibits have been placed in cases at the most important points for the information of visitors. Several of these contain photographs taken shortly after the battle and showing the ravages of war. The Park maintains 130 buildings, many of which date from the Civil War period and still bear the scars of the battle. The National Park Service maintains a museum in the Post Office building open without charge to visitors, and also a cyclorama painting of Pickett's Charge on the Baltimore Road. This is open during seasonable weather.

More than three-quarter million visitors from all parts of the United States and many foreign countries visit Gettysburg annually. Leading military figures throughout the world have been attracted to this battlefield in order to observe first-hand the terrain on which it was fought. Field Marshal Rommel, Prime Minister Churchill, Viscount Gort, and many others have enjoyed seeing the battlefield. It was here that Captain Dwight Eisenhower commanded a tank training force during World War I and, having pleasant memories of the town, returned a few years ago to purchase what he hoped would be a permanent farm home.

Schools Served Country

The Gettysburg Theological Seminary and Gettysburg College played important parts in the battle. The Old Dorm buildings of both institutions were used as hospitals for the wounded of the two armies and the cupolas of both buildings were employed as lookouts by the officers. When the invasion scare was at its height during the latter part of June, 1863, emergency regiments were hurriedly raised in various parts of the state. Among these was the 26th Pennsylvania of which Company A was from Gettysburg and consisted chiefly of college students. They were stationed on June 28 on the Chambersburg Pike about three miles west of Gettysburg overlooking the Marsh Creek crossing. Just at that time, General Early's Confederate Division, with White's Confederate Cavalry as an escort, was moving toward Gettysburg on its way to York and Columbia. The militia were hopelessly outnumbered and had no real chance to stop the enemy. They lost about 170 prisoners who were then paroled.

Students are cordially invited to visit the map room in the Post Office building and the Cyclorama.

COLLEGE HAS NEW COURSES IN BIOLOGY

DR. EARL BOWEN
Head of Biology Department
Gettysburg College

The courses in the Biology Department of Gettysburg College are so designed and presented as to provide an understanding of the basic principles of general and comparative biology. Emphasis is placed upon the cultural values of the biological sciences, biological principles in relation to human life, and also upon a fundamental training for students who plan to enter graduate schools of biology, medicine, dentistry, nursing, forestry, laboratory technology, or other professional biological fields.

These courses are offered by a staff of five professors, all of whom have had wide interests and experience in the field of biology. During the past year, for example, all members of the staff have been engaged in experimental work, field investigation, or writing in connection with their particular areas of interest.

Dr. Harold M. Messer is preparing a text in mammalian zoology; Dr. Marvin M. Hensley has been completing some studies on the amphibian and reptilian life of the southwest; George E. Grube is engaged in field work on the birds of this area and an introductory text in ornithology; Dr. William Grant has prepared his thesis for publication; the writer has completed certain studies on the sensory endings of the ear and continued some investigations in marine zoology, particularly with reference to the embryology, life histories and distribution of sharks.

Two new courses are to be given in the Biology Department this year, General Biology and General Zoology. These are one-semester courses primarily of interest to students who may be expecting to continue with scientific work. The offering of these courses will make it possible for the course in General Biology to be adapted even more than heretofore to the students who have no interest in concentrating their work in any of the sciences.

The honorary society in biology, Beta Beta Beta, will provide some programs of wide interest — perhaps one or two which will be open to the general public. Sometime during the second semester it is expected that an open house will be held for faculty, students, and others who may be interested, with exhibitions and demonstrations in all of the laboratories of the department. It is hoped that this will afford an opportunity for any who may desire to see for themselves something of the work which is being done.

Charles R. Wolfe

Charles Robert Wolfe, a native of Bloomsburg, Pa., received his A.B. degree in 1923 and his A.M. degree in 1926 from Gettysburg College. Robert Fortenbaugh, native of Harrisburg, Pa., received his A. B. degree from Gettysburg College in 1913 and was graduated from the Gettysburg Lutheran Theological Seminary in 1916. He was pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Atonement, Syracuse, N. He has been Adeline Sager professor of history since 1926.

Dr. Fortenbaugh, who is a member of the Phi Beta Kappa, Kappa Phi Kappa, Phi Kappa Phi, Alpha Tau Omega and Phi Alpha Theta Fraternities, has been a secretary of the local chapter of the Phi Beta Kappa since 1930.

He received his A.M. from Syracuse University in 1920 and his Ph.D. from the University of Pennsylvania in 1926. He was president of the Pennsylvania Historical Association from 1945 until 1948. Gettysburg College Worth Over $2,000,000 To Town; Vital Factor In Community

By RICHARD C. DEBUS
Business Manager
Gettysburg College

Gettysburg College has been an integral part of the community of Gettysburg for so long, 122 years, that most of us are unaware of what a big business it has become and how important it is to the financial well being of our town.

The College is responsible for the spending in Gettysburg of over two million dollars ($2,000,000) per year. This is a staggering sum when we consider that this represents over $270 per resident.

The annual budget of the College runs slightly over $1,000,000, of which 83 per cent, or approximately $830,000, is spent in Gettysburg. In addition, the fraternities, as organizations, spend another $290,000; the students spend approximately $630,000, and visitors brought to Gettysburg by the College and its functions spend $250,000 — making a grand total of $2,010,000 worth of business brought to Gettysburg businessmen each year because the College is in their midst.

RICHARD C. DEBUS

$540,000 In Salaries

It is interesting to note the source of these expenditures each year. Of the $830,000 from the College budget, $540,000 is in salaries to Gettysburg residents which in turn is spent in the community. Food for the dining hall runs about $120,000 per year while supplies and services average $98,000. A large item in the budget is for fuel, light, water, sewerage, telephone and telegraph which average $52,000 per year. The fraternities, which spend about $290,000 per year, spend the major portion, $270,000, for food and supplies, while spending $10,000 for utilities and $2,000 in taxes.

It is conservatively estimated that the students spend some $630,000 in Gettysburg, at least $60,000 of which goes to townspeople in the form of room rents. Entertainment and recreation cost them about $350,000, clothing and services $100,000 and meals, snacks, etc., about $120,000. This may sound like a very large sum but when broken down per student it averages only $16.40 per week. This is an extremely small amount per person when we realize that 200 students eat all their meals in town and better than 300 live in private homes.

Attract 25,000 Visitors

Finally, we find that better than 25,000 people come to Gettysburg to survey the Campus before and at registration time, for athletic contests, Father's Day, Mother's Day, Homecoming, Woman's League, Commencement, Conventions, and Meetings, spending an average of $10.00 each.

It may be fairly said that the estimate of better than $2,000,000 per year is a conservative one. The College is happy to be so important a part of the life of the community, and appreciates the community's friendliness and cordiality toward it.

Gettysburg College is proud to be one of the big businesses in Gettysburg's own North Yard.

Expanded Music Department, Under Parker B. Wagnild, Attracts 175 Undergraduates

PARKER B. WAGNILD

The varied endeavors of the Music Department of Gettysburg College yearly attract about 175 undergraduates with about 16 students pursing music as a major course. Under the direction of Parker B. Wagnild, professor of music and head of the department, six other staff members offer instruction in the various fields of the student's choice.

Professor Wagnild, to whom this year's G-Book is dedicated for his efforts with the College Choir, teaches theory and directs the choir. R. Henry Ackley is assistant professor of voice and theory; Anna Marie Budde teaches voice; J. Herbert Springer, piano; Virginia Barriga, piano and organ; and Eleanor Bidka is chapel organist and chapel choir director.

55 In College Choir

The college choir, numbering 55 students, gives frequent recitals during the year. At present Dr. Harold A. Dunkelberger, faculty choir manager, is arranging a recital tour through northern Pennsylvania, New York, and Ohio. The series of concerts will begin about March 26 and last approximately 10 days.

One of the feature performances of the choir will be the Christmas Concert held in conjunction with the Student Christian Association and the newly created art department on Sunday evening, December 13, in the new Christ Church. The Choir will also be heard on long-playing Columbia records now being pressed. These will be ready for distribution in the middle of October and will present a portion of the concert program.

College Band

The College Band, under the direction of Paul Harner, will again play at all home football games. They will also make trips to Western Maryland, Albright, Muhlenberg, and Lebanon Valley. Miss Bonnie MacGibeny, ace baton twirler, will be featured at the band performances.

Dr. Frederick Shaffer, Franklin professor of Greek and a capable musician, will again present college musicales in the music lounge. Dates are yet to be arranged for these performances, as well as for the Madrigal Singers and the stringed instrument ensemble.

In the spring of 1954 Christ Chapel will be the scene of a Fine Arts Festival, which will offer concerts by the Music department and a display of art by the Art department.

COLLEGE GAVE MANY GREAT MEN TO PROFESSIONS

Since 1832 Gettysburg College has made a notable contribution to the professional and business life of America. The oldest Lutheran College in the U. S. she has been instrumental in founding many other Lutheran Colleges, as well as furnishing a continuous stream of graduates for the various professions and careers.

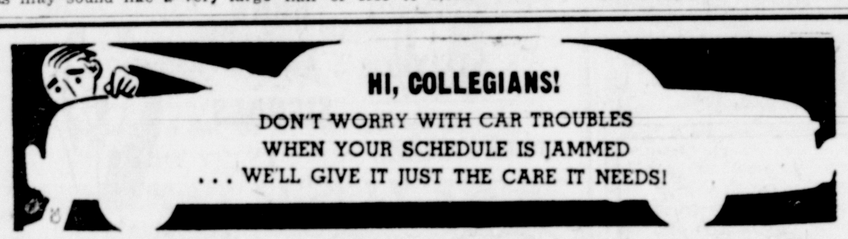

Two members of the Class of 1835 entered the ministry and became interested in missionary work. David F. Bittle, D.D., became a co-founder of Virginia Institute (now Roanoke College) in Salem, Va., and Ezra Keller, D.D., of the same class, founded Wittenberg College in Springfield, Ohio. Jacob A. Clutz, D.D., 1869, was one of the founders of Midland College in Fremont, Neb., and became its first president in 1887.

In the first hundred years of her eixstence Gettysburg College contributed to the business and professional life of America as follows:

1385 Clergymen, 50 Missionaries, 60 College Presidents, 424 College Professors, 870 Elementary and Secondary School Teachers, 441 Medical Men, 361 Lawyers, 15 Judges of the Courts, 156 Scientists, 1333 Business Executives, 174 Engineers, 48 Dentists, 69 Military Men scores of others who do not come under any single classification.

Since 1932 increased enrollments have enlarged these figures proportionally and a new Directory, now in preparation, will show accurately the contribution made by Gettysburg College to the American Way of Life.

In the United States there are 20 per cent more women users of eyeglasses than men users.

Snakes Alive!

College Professor Scoffs Misconceptions And Myths

By DR. MAX HENSLEY
GETTYSBURG COLLEGE
Assistant Professor of Biology
Gettysburg College

Few native animals are more imperfectly known, more persecuted, or more misrepresented than snakes. Contrary to popular belief, most of them are neither obnoxious nor poisonous. The misconceptions concerning these interesting creatures are handed down from generation to generation and, as tales go, tend to get more spectacular as time progresses. For hundreds of years snakes have been endowed with all sorts of mythical attributes for which they could be justly proud if they were true. Few of them, however, have any factual basis. Any person who refutes such stories as those as those concerning snakes milking cows or hoopsnakes taking their tails in their mouths and rolling after a poor victim are considered mentally cracked or woefully inexperienced in the wonders of nature by many folks.

Can't Milk Cows

One of the most widespread myths is that some snakes have the ability to milk cows. Anyone who has milked a cow realizes that considerable pressure is required to obtain a flow milk and considering the anatomical structure of the snake this would be impossible. Furthermore, a snake has two rows of very sharp needle-like teeth in the upper jaw. Think what would happen if a snake clamped down hard enough to permit suction. He would soon be so busy defending himself from an irate cow that little milk would be extracted.

Another common story is that snakes swallow their young when danger arises. This situation, if true, would be most unfortunate for the young creatures. Snakes swallow their food whole and without chewing. Consequently they have very strong digestive juices to break down bone and other hard tissues that they engest. It would literally be a one way trip for the young snakes for they would be digested promptly and expediently This myth is most commonly reported when a female snake, about ready to give birth to young, is killed. The body wall is greatly distended at this time and is easily ruptured. Young snakes are independent at birth and once liberated from the mother may attempt to hide under her body thereby creating the illusion of bring swallowed. Our common garter snakes are usually associated with the story.

Snakes Are Dry

Snakes are not slimy but perfectly dry to the touch. They do not have a stinger on their tongue for it actually is a highly specialized sense organ with which they detect objects by touch or smell. There is no correlation between the age of a rattlesnake and the number of rattles it possesses. A new rattle is formed every time the animal sheds its skin which may occur several times during a summer and they are continually being lost from wear as they are dragged on the ground. These are but a few of the many misconceptions involving these animals.

There are many kinds of snakes and their habits are as varied as those of birds or mammals. Some burrow in the ground and are seldom seen; others are swimmers and spend most of their time in swamps, ponds, or streams; some climb trees and may be completely arboreal never seen on the ground. Most, however, can climb and all can swim. Eyesight apparently is well developed for they can see well, at least for short distances. In temperate climates all snakes hibernate. They are extremely sensitive to cold and usually take refuge in holes or crevices in rocks to escape frost or cold weather during the winter months.

Have Dens In Rocks

Rattlesnakes, copperheads, and certain other snakes have dens in rocks in which they hibernate. This accounts for the large numbers occasionally found in such areas during late fall or early spring when they are either entering or leaving the dens. As a rule snakes mate just prior to or shortly after leaving their winter hibernation. Those species that give birth to young do so during late summer or early fall while those kinds laying eggs deposit them in early summer and the young hatch in early fall. About half of our U. S. species lay eggs while the remainder produce live young.

Pennsylvania has at least 21 different kinds of snakes of which only three are poisonous. These are the copperhead, timber rattlesnake, and the rare little massasauga or pigmy rattlesnake. Unfortunately these species are feared all out of proportion to the few accidents they cause and can, with a little caution, be easily identified on sight. Each has the typical wide, or triangular-shaped head as well as a pit on each side of the head between the eye and nose giving them the illusion of having four nostrils.

Copperhead Is Widespread

Of course, the two species of rattlesnakes possess the well known rattle on the end of the tail and the copperhead has a flat-topped, coppery-red head which makes it easily distinguishable.

The copperhead is the most widespread of the three venomous species but is largely noctural in its habits which results in comparatively few accidents despite its prevalence. The timber rattler is most common in sparsely settled mountainous areas and is the largest of our poisonous species in this state. The massasauga has been recorded in only six counties of western Pennsylvania where it is partial to prairies and marshy areas. Rodents, such as rats and mice, make up the bulk of the food of these animals. All produce from three to ten or so young in late August or early September.

Treat Bites Quickly

Treatment for the bite of a poisonous snake is relatively simple but important to prevent serious complications. A tourniquet between the wound and the heart should be applied immediately, then cuts made through the fang marks to facilitate bleeding. If no suction equipment is available the mouth can be used for any venom accidentally swallowed will be readily digested without ill effect provided there are no open wounds in the mouth. The victim should remain as quiet as possible and under no circumstances should alcohol or other stimulants be used for they only speed up heart beat and hasten dispersal of the venom. The tourniquet must be loosened frequently to permit circulation of blood. A doctor should then be consulted as soon as possible. If these precautions are followed the victim need not fear fatal results for relatively few bites result in death and these extreme cases are usually instances were shock or other factors are present. To be sure, it is an unpleasant experience and proper precautions should be taken in areas inhabited by venomous species.

Most Snakes Beneficial

Most of our common snakes, however, are quite beneficial and should be unmolested. Such snakes are not poisonous and although they may attempt to bite when disturbed, as would any wild animal, their bite is harmless and amounts to no more than a scratch. The natural food of garter snakes consists largely of salamanders, earthworms, spiders, and insects. They have been known to consume large quantities of grasshoppers when they are available. Black snakes, pine snakes, blue racers, and house or "milk snakes feed largely on field mice, rats, chipmunks, and occasionally on birds, frogs, and insects. King snakes are able to kill rattlesnakes and have been known to eat them and are apparently somewhat immune to their bite. Their natural food, to large extent, is other kinds of snakes but contrary to popular belief does not deliberately seek out the venomous kinds.

Smaller species such as the little red-bellied snake, DeKays snake, green snake, and the ring-necked snake subsist almost entirely on insects, earthworms, and slugs. This latter organism is quite destructive to garden plants. Bull snakes destroy large numbers of rodents during the course of a summer and even the rattlesnakes are extremely useful in their feeding habits for their constant foraging helps to keep down the numbers of groundsquirrels, prairie dogs, and rodents of all kinds. In areas where human inhabitation is sparse rattlesnakes should be unmolested for they are important agents in maintaining a natural balance of nature. Being slow creatures they have evolved poison glands which serve chiefly as a food getting mechanism and only secondarily as protection.

Eating Habits Vary

As to be expected the food habits of some species conflict with man's interests. Water snakes eat frogs and small fishes, queen snakes thrive on crayfish, and black snakes will take a certain number of ground nesting birds such as young pheasants or quail and some eggs. The hog-nosed snake lives almost exclusively on toads. However, even with these species, a majority of their food is of an economical nature and no creature should be condemned for taking an occasional game species in its struggle for existence. After all snakes have been utilizing these animals for food long before man considered them his private property.

One of the most appalling practices is the promiscuous slaughtering of these animals merely because they have become synonymous, through misunderstanding and myths, with evil or sinister forces. Hundreds of snakes are wantonly killed just because they are snakes without a thought as to their role in the environment of nature. Actually they are docile creatures, for most part, and make interesting pets.

Attract Leather Industry

Fortunately, the study of reptiles and amphibians, a science known as herpetology, is rapidly uncovering many facts heretofore unknown about snakes which will insure in future generations a more realistic attitude. Even now the leather industry has discovered in them a source of raw material. In one year an estimated 2,500,000 snake skins were taken from India alone for manufacture into shoes, handbags, and other leather products. Venom from the poisonous species is currently being used in the manufacture of anti-venom and research laboratories are probing possibilities of its use in such fields as polio therapy. With proper conservation practices and an unbiased popular attitude snakes may develop into important and beneficial agents to man.

Now That You Are In Historic Gettysburg

By ROBERT FORTENBAUGH
Adeline Sager
Professor of History
Gettysburg College

Among the many advantages and benefits which a student at Gettysburg College enjoys is the opportunity of living for four years (more or less) in historic Gettysburg. Gettysburg is truly historic and its name is literally world-famous.

This has come to be because on July 1, 2, and 3, 1863, the battle, or series of battles, between the most important army of the United States (the Army of the Potomac), commanded by General George Gordon Meade, and the mainstay of the Confederate States (the Army of Northern Virginia), commanded by General Robert E. Lee, virtually decided that the Confederate cause could not eventually triumph and that the United States of America would be preserved unbroken.

More Than Decisive Battle

The Battle of Gettysburg was not only a decisive battle but one with some unusual features. For its day it was a long-continued engagement—three days; for its day it brought into conflict the largest contending armies over to meet on American soil, with a variety of situations which were met by the contending commanders. Mainly for these reasons the tactics at Gettysburg were so completely and so effectively applied as to make these operations model operations. Therefore Gettysburg tactics are classic, and every student of military science of every nation studies them and covets the opportunity to visit Gettysburg and study the field of operations itself for better understanding of the important lessons he has learned from his textbooks and manuals. In the 1930's it was noticed that many Japanese and German officers particularly were in Gettysburg to study the field, and General, Rommel, of German Panzer fame, made an extensive study of it.

Lincoln Speaks

Out of the devastation of three days of general battle arose the need to care adequately for the bodies of the Union troops who fell on the field. From this circumstance came another basis for the claim that Gettysburg is supremely historic. On November 19, 1893, in speaking a "few appropriate remarks" of consecration of the Soldiers National Cemetery on the hill at the southern edge of the town of Gettysburg, Abraham Lincoln, in less than three minutes, gave the world its most widely-quoted human utterance, Lincoln's Gettysburg Address.

Wherever men read or speak, the words of that great address are praised and repeated as among the grandest words ever spoken by human lips. The Address of approximately 275 words began with the well-known sentence, "Four score and seven years ago our fathers brought forth on this continent, a new nation, conceived in Liberty, and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal," and closed with the universally loved words, "and that government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth."

Fine Opportunity

Among such scenes, with so great associations, the student of Gettysburg College spends his college years. None of those who come here to college should neglect the opportunity of being impressed with their meaning, and of becoming acquainted with the story and the significance of these great events. NOW THAT YOU ARE IN HISTORIC GETTYSBURG make the most of a fine opportunity to be impressed and inspired. Be informed that you may have a firm basis for the true belief that ours is a great land for which our forefathers were unsparing in their sacrifices. In Gettysburg may you learn the better to be worthy of their sacrifice.

"The village sleeps, a name unknown,
Till men
With life-blood stain its soil,
And pay the due
That lifts it to eternal fame,—
For then
'Tis given a Gettysburg or Waterloo."

Greetings From Burgess

The young men and women who comprise the student bodies of Gettysburg College, Gettysburg Theological Seminary and the faculties and administrators of these two great institutions are an integral, important and welcome segment of our community. Today the citizens of Gettysburg realize what you contribute to our community and it is our sincere hope that in return Gettysburg, steeped as it is in history, can contribute something to your lives that you will carry with you always.

To those of you who are returning for completion of studies already started or to renew your endeavors as teachers and administrators, I again express our welcome of previous years. It is to the newcomers that the Borough Government and citizens of our town especially direct this annual message of welcome. We want you to feel at home among us, to take advantage of what Gettysburg has to offer, and to join with our people in the life of the community.

Gettysburg is a National Shrine. It is visited each year by more than three-quarters of a million tourists. You will rub elbows with people from every state in the Union and from many foreign countries. You will have the advantage of seeing and hearing persons of national importance as they take part in annual events held here.

Gettysburg is a town small enough for you to be a part of its population and not lost among its people. We will learn to know you and we hope you learn to know us.

Sincerely,
WILLIAM G. WEAVER

SCA Provides Leadership In Christian Way Of Right Living

By JAMES I. TARMAN
Director of Publicity
Gettysburg College

Occupying a position of prominence on the Gettysburg College campus is the big brick building called Weidensall Hall. Above its portico gleams nightly a lighted Cross, significant of the work that is carried on inside. For this is the Student Christian Association building, a center for campus recreation, work, and fellowship — a center for Christian activity.

Convinced that Christianity has a vital message relevant to every phase of campus life, this all-student organization, referred to as the S.C.A., is more than just another extracurricular activity. Its varied program of worship, study and action is aimed at giving the inquiring student an idea of how Christianity can become a way of life, influencing all of his thought and activities.

Christian Influence

Many are the problems and questions an honest young person faces in the new experience of studying and living away from the stabilizing influence of home, in many cases for the first time. Without substituting itself for a church, the SCA program provides a Christian framework in which the student can share his questions and convictions with others. It seeks to help him find solutions to his problems by the realization that only in a Christian relationship can an individual find real meaning for all of life.

In the informal atmosphere of the snack bar, swimming pool, or lounge of Weidensall Hall, the student can relax and meet new friends. Not officially listed on the bulletin board in the lobby are the frequent songfests and discussions which take place around the piano, by the open fireplace, in the reading room, or in the recreation room.

Regular Sessions

Every Monday night there is a regular meeting, where panel discussions, special speakers, study groups, and "buzz" sessions deal with such topics as courtship and marriage, Christianity and athletics, political issues, and campus social or academic problems. Students air their views, special films are shown, and frequently faculty members take part in the programs.

The corporate quest for answers frequently takes the form of Bible study; one group meets every Thursday night in the reading room. Many indviduals enter the private meditation chapel at all hours of the day or night. Small groups join in prayer cells at different times in dormitories and fraternity houses; many meet each week for a campus Sunday School class. Different SCA members express their faith by leading services in Christ Chapel one morning each week.

Many members find answers in helping others—youngsters at interracial programs of worship and handcrafts at the Gettysburg AME Zion Church; lonely old folks by visits and crafts at the County Home; eager teen-agers in the Hi-Y and Y-Teen Clubs at Gettysburg High School.

All kinds of talents find expression in the SCA. There are Wednesday night Vespers over the Gettysburg radio station, WGET. There are always crews of artists at work on posters and publicity for SCA projects. The calendar is dotted with special events. In the fall come picnics, square dances, and coffee hours. At Christmas, the SCA goes caroling in the community. A spiritual highlight of the year is Religion-In-Life Week, held in February, when an outstanding speaker and discussion leaders stimulate thinking and ideas. Throughout the year, excursions to other campuses and Buck Hill Falls provide stimulation and interchange of ideas. Ash Wednesday and membership or installation programs are occasions for Communion or other special worship services.

The work is guided by a cabinet composed of eight committee chairmen and four elected officers, all of whom prepare for their work by attendance at a camp for a week of leadership training at the close of the school year, and by a College Cabin retreat on the weekend before Orientation Week. The organization is guided in planning by the interested help of five faculty members and Chaplain Korte, and is financed by a Student Council allotment and special contributions from the Gettysburg Woman's League.

Purpose of the SCA: 1. To lead students to faith in God through Christ. 2. To bring them into active relationship with the Church. 3. To promote their growth in Christian faith and character, especially through prayer and Bible study. 4. To influence them to devote united effort with all Christians to making the will of Christ effective in human society, and to extending the Kingdom of God throughout the world.

M/Sgt. Max T. Leonard, a native of Altoona, was educated at Hollidaysburg and Kiski Prep. An instructor in air science, he has been in the Army and Air Force since 1933. He is married to the former Daisy Ketrow and they have three children, Connie, 17, Carol, 13, and Mary Brumbaugh, 10.

AFROTC Implements Generalized Curriculum Of Air Force R.T.C.

By COL C. E. FULTON
AFROTC Gettysburg College

The Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps for the academic year 1953-54 is implementing the generalized curriculum recently adopted by headquarters, Air Force Reserve Training Cops, Montgomery, Alabama. The new curriculum is also being introduced in each of the 204 AFROTC units in universities and colleges throughout the United States.

The generalized curriculum is designed as a permanent program of instruction at civilian educational institutions to select, educate and motivate students to serve as commissioned officers in the regular and reserve components of the United States Air Force.

Training Afte. Graduation

Under the generalized curriculum and advanced course selection criteria academic background and potential skill qualifications will determine initial Air Force assignments rather than the military specialty pursued in the previous specialized comptrollership option. The new commissed officers will receive skill training after graduation. In addition, the new officers will have competence in the general areas required of Air Force officers today from their undergraduate background.

The new course of study is divided into the basic course covering the first two years of college and the advanced course covering the Junior year, summer camp and senior year.

The basic course will present materials and subject matter not elsewhere available in the institutional curriculum. This subject matter establishes an optimum foundation for the development of an Air Force officer. In the basic course such areas as introduction to aviation, fundamentals of global geography, international tensions and security structures, instruments of national military security, elements of aerial warfare including targets, weapons, delivery of aircraft, bases and air operations will be covered.

Well Trained Men

The advanced course will also present material and subject matter nowhere else available in the college curriculum. This subject matter is designed primarily to develop an Air Force officer with high growth potential and secondarily to produce new officers prepared to enter immediately into the specialized and technical training programs or into fields closely allied to their major field of academic study. In the advanced course such areas will be covered as the Air Force Commander and his staff, Problem Solving Techniques, the Communications Process and Air Force Correspondence, Military Law, Courts and Boards, Applied Air Science to include aerodynamics, propulsion, aircraft engines and aerial navigation, Air Force Base Functions, Leadership Seminar, Career Guidance, Military Aspects of World Political Geography, Military Aviation and the Art of War, and Briefing for commissioned service.

Leadership Laboratory

During each of the four years of the AFROTC program, each cadet will participate in a Leadership Laboratory designed as a practical approach to the development of leadership potential in the student. In this phase of training, the emphasis will be upon doing rather than listening both in the academic classroom and on the Drill Field. As the students progress from year to year in the program, he will be given positions of higher responsibilities commensurate with his individual capabilities. Upon completion of the leadership laboratory the students should have mastered the techniques of leadership which are applicable to the Air Force as well as in industry, business and community life.

The following new personnel has been assigned to assist the Professor of Air Science and Tactics to accomplish the mission of the AFROTC: T/Sgt. Joseph G. McCaslin and S/Sgt. Donald E. Evins.

Many Factors Contribute To Great Success Of Library

By JOHN H. KNICKERBOCKER
College Librarian

Another academic year offers the opportunity to diffuse the influence of good reading throughout the campus community. This is for each, as someone has put it, but doing what his first school attempted to do. If there be any newness in it, it is in how this influence is to be exerted. It is from man's first grunt to the hope ultimately of a gradually integrated humanity through the diffusion of knowledge that library effort is directed — at Gettysburg as elsewhere. Here, too, are not only the many diverting attractions but the insistent demand for the attention of the reader as between required and voluntary reading.

A constantly improved and inspired teaching faculty largely directs and controls the influence from required reading. That college library is successful, however, when the greater part of campus reading is not only voluntary but purposeful. A library succeeds when it contributes to each the ability effectively of meeting the difficult conditions of twentieth-century living. In this case, starting with the declared Christ-centered purposes of the college as a basis, the library hopes to promote the belief that "that education is of the most worth which each gives himself."

Contributing Factors

Much contributes to this at Gettysburg College Library: Constantly increased funds, a trained and enthusiastic staff, well selected book and other resources, excellent equipment, good public relations, thorough cataloging, effective administrative practices, and attractive surroundings. To these, since space permits only brief mention, must be added such projected plans for the coming year intended to exert the desired influence from good reading as professional guidance in the use of books and libraries; the preparation and circulation of a library manual; the introduction of microfilm research reading machines; quickened interest in reading by the use of film-strip and slide projectors; the addition of a record library of music, plays, speeches, and poems by the best artists; several new listening machines; an increasingly growing valuable picture collection; improved exhibits on such subjects as the United Nations and the fiftieth anniversary of aviation; a revived "Modern Book Club" as well as plans, as resources permit, to develop adult education for those in the community in their post school years seeking to meet the demands of today.

JOHN H. KNICKERBOCKER

Spare No Efforts

No effort is spared to increase the influence of good reading. Synopses, outlines, surveys and epitomes in abundance and in all fields whether of the Life — "World We Live In" or the Ploetz — "Epitome of World History" variety give the essentials of knowledge. With these available to answer the immediate, inevitable and insistent, "Who what, when, how and why," are the many additional books to advance independent thought, exploration, interpretation and action. All of these move across the desk which, marking the boundary between the two eternities, influence each in deciding his road ahead — "and this makes all the difference."

300 STUDENTS EXPECTED TO ENROLL IN ROTC

For the 1953-54 session the Army ROTC Department offers for the first time at Gettysburg College the Branch General Curriculum of Army ROTC. This curriculum replaces Infantry program formerly offered at the College.

The objectives of the program is to train for the Army young officers who have outstanding leadership ability, a broad background of military knowledge and are ready, willing and able to be assigned to any branch of the Army for specialized training. It is planned that after receiving this specialized training at one of the many Army Officers Service Schools these officers will be qualified to serve as combat leaders, administrative officers, or as officers of one of the technical services according to training received at Service Schools.

Both civilian and military educators have helped develop the new Branch General Curriculum.

The new program continues to offer the same benefits to the student: high standard of military training, uniforms furnished, pay during Junior and Senior years, Summer Camp training with pay, selective service deferment for those that meet the required standards.

Two new faculty members have been added to the ROTC Department for the coming year, 1st Lt Guinn E. Unger as assistant professor and Master Sergeant Harold Evermann as instructor. With these additions the Army personnel in the Department is now three Army officers and five Army sergeants.

It is anticipated that the size of the Army Cadet Corps this year will be 300 students.

Bullet Sports Program Is More Highly Developed Than Any Other Small College

By JAMES I. TARMAN
Director of Publicity
Gettysburg College

JAMES I. TARMAN

Gettysburg has one of the most highly developed intercollegiate athletic programs of any small college in the nation. The college maintains membership in the National Collegiate Athletic Association, the Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference, and the Middle Atlantic States Collegiate Athletic Conference. The program of intercollegiate athletics for men includes football, basketball, baseball, track, wrestling, soccer, tennis, golf, swimming and cross-country.

Intercollegiate football was introduced to the United States way back in 1869, with Rutgers defeating Princeton, 6-4, at New Brunswick, N. J. Gettysburg College (then called Pennsylvania College) became one of the pioneer small colleges to take up the sport, when only 10 years later, in 1879, she organized her first team. Up until that year, croquet was the major sport on the campus, with competition in corner-ball and round-ball completing the athletic program. It appears, however, that these offerings didn't completely satisfy Gettysburg's athletic young men, and they began searching for a new type of physical endeavor. Thus, in September, 1879, the first intercollegiate football game involving Gettysburg was played. Dickinson, G-Burg's opponent for the initial battle, evidently looked at the wrong calendar, for the Red Devils arrived a week ahead of the day decided upon for the contest. Undaunted, the Bullets formed a team and, with no previous organized practice, won the three-hour contest, 11-6.

261-215-33 Record

From that unorganized beginning, Gettysburg has risen to a place among the small college football powers of the East. Through the years the Bullets have battled some of the best in the country—Penn, Army, Pitt, Penn State, Villanova, Bucknell, etc.—as they compiled a record which today reads 261 victories, 215 losses and 33 ties. Countless stars and worthy coaches have made their mark in the Gettysburg record books.

Saturday afternoon, September 26, the 1953 Gettysburg team will open its nine-game program, meeting the rugged University of Delaware Blue Hens at Newark, Del. The Bullets defeated Delaware, 14-13, last year, in the ninth game of a series that stands at four wins apiece

Head Coach John Yovicsin, starting his second season as boss of the Bullets, calls the '53 schedule consisting of games with Lehigh, Bucknell, Western Maryland, Albright, Muhlenberg, Dickinson, Lebanon Valley, Franklin and Marshall, and Delaware, a very tough one.

Sophomore-Loaded

Yovicsin hopes the second-year jinx, which so often plagues second-year baseball players, hasn't found its way into college football circles. Of the 46 players on this year's club, 21 are sophomores—up from a 1952 freshman team that rolled to an undefeated season. That figure jumps to 22 when one stops to consider that Yovicsin himself is beginning his sophomore season at the Gettysburg helm.

Twenty-one returning lettermen will add a flavor of experience to this year's Bullet gridiron edition. Sixteen players, including All-State guard Bill Ewing and ace passing quarterback Berky Ward, are gone from a 1952 team that won six and lost three.

A tremendous problem facing the 1953 Gettysburg team is the necessity of converting from the two-platoon system of play—recently outlawed by the Intercollegiate Rules Committee. Gettysburg, always fortunate enough to possess one of the deepest benches in small college football circles, employed the two-platoon maneuvers to great advantage. Now, Yovicsin has the problem of converting his light backs into 60-minute performers.

However, the Bullets have given convincing performances during the last three weeks of practice—three weeks that included intersquad scrimes with West Chester and Shippensburg — and win, lose or draw, the nine opponents on Gettysburg's 1953 schedule will know they were in a ball game.

Basketball

Under the guidance of Coach Hen Bream, Gettysburg has consistently floored one of the state's top basketball teams in recent years. The Bullets, famous for their offensive play, have ranked among the top scoring clubs of the nation over the last few years.

Winner of 13 out of 22 games last season, this year's quintet will play the same number of games. The coming schedule, labeled by Bream as one of the most rugged in his 26 years of coaching, includes Navy, Penn State, Temple, Virginia and Lafayette.

Never a tall team, as basketball aggregations go these days, the hustling Bullets seldom fail to put on thrilling shows, and many is the fan who can tell of sizzling battles on the Eddie Plank Memorial court.

Baseball

Ever since Eddie Plank, later to become an immortal big leaguer with the Philadelphia Athletics, was pitching for the Gettysburg Bullets, baseball has been one of the top sports on the campus. Advance reports indicate that Gettysburg will have another good team this season. "Hen" Bream, who replaced the late Ira Plank, brother of Eddie, will coach the hardballers for the third year. Gettysburg will meet 15 opponents, including Lafayette, Penn State, Temple and Navy.

Wrestling

Continuing their success of recent years, the 1953 edition of Coach Jack Shainline's wrestling team tasted defeat just once in a nine-match card. The Gettysburg squad ranked as one of the finest small college wrestling teams in the eastern United States, as it captured the Middle Atlantic Championships for the fifth straight year.

College Conducts Extensive Physical Education Program, Intercollegiate, Intramural

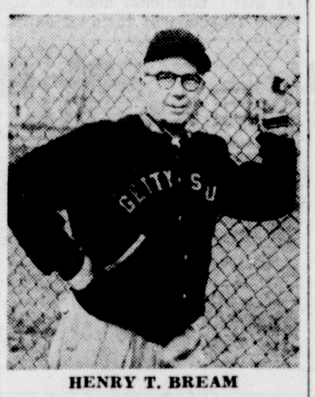

HENRY T. BREAM

The Department of Physical Education is divided into three parts: Intercollegiate program, Intramural program and the "major" program in Health and Physical Education.

Gettysburg College is a member of the Eastern College Athletic Conference and maintains a well rounded program of intercollegiate athletics under the rules of this conference.

The major sports include football, soccer, basketball, wrestling, baseball and track.

The minor sports include cross country, swimming, golf and tennis.

HENRY T. BREAM

Freshman schedules are arranged for these sports in so far as it is possible to do so.

An intercollegiate schedule is maintained for the women in hockey and basketball.

Intramural Program

The Intramural program for the coming year will include ten activities to provide competition for the non-varsity athlete. The fall season will open with a touch football schedule, golf and tennis. This will be followed by volleyball and swimming.

After the Christmas holidays a two league basketball schedule will begin, and this will close with an All-Star game and a foul-shooting contest.

In February there will be a Table-Tennis tournament followed by bowling and the final spring activity will be softball.

The department awards a trophy to the winning team in each activity.

Health Education

The "major" program in Health Education, now beginning its seventh year, continues in its original philosophy of small teaching groups and a broad background of educational experience. The department offers a complete state approved curriculum, preparing students to teach Health and Physical Education in the secondary schools. In addition, students who do not wish to teach may follow a special non-teaching course of study. This is in preparation for physical therapy or nursing schools.

This year, as in the past, the department will offer sixteen courses leading to the degree of Bachelor of Arts.

Gettysburg is one of the few institutions conferring the liberal arts degree in Health and Physical Education.

Harold R. Everman

Harold Randall Everman, ROTC instructor, is an native of Centerville, Iowa. A graduate of the United States Military Academy, West Point, N. Y., where he received his degree in 1932, Colonel Everman served as a Cadel at West Point from 1928-32, an officer in the regular army from 1939-49, and enlisted in 1950. He is a member of the USAR.

Married to the former Kathryn Brooks Bruton Wagner, they have one daughter, Tonia Wynette Everman, 11.

COLLEGE SEEKS TO GIVE AID TO HANDICAPPED

By HENRY T. BREAM
Athletic Director
Gettysburg College

"The high schools, colleges and universities of this nation have an important role in bringing about integrated and continuous service to the disabled and the handicapped. If our educational institutions are to assume their proper role, it remains for them to provide organization, personnel and program so that the physical, mental and vocational powers of the handicapped individual may be improved to the point of enabling him to compete with equal opportunity," declared, Lawrence L. Finck, executive director of the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults.

Huge Undertaking

The department of physical education at Gettysburg College, in undertaking a corrective physical education program, is well aware of the tremendous task we are undertaking and we fully realize that this unusual and splendid program can't be built overnight. We will aim to improve upon it each year, until finally we achieve a program that we may be proud to be a part of. There are at the present time, twenty-three million handicapped individuals in the United States. Our college is no exception, as each year we have handicapped individuals who enter our portals.

Perhaps it would be more fitting to title our program "Adapted Physical Education." It is our hope that all students will be able to take physical education and we will attempt to organize and prescribe a program which will meet the needs of the individual.

George R. Larkin

George Raymond Larkin, a native of Connecticut, was educated in the public schools of Massachusetts and at Wesleyan University from which he received his B.A. in 1918 and his M.A. in 1921. During the first World War he served with the 17th Field Artillery as a regimental sergeant-major. He is married to the former Anne M. Stacy of Pittsfield, Massachusetts, and lives at 315 N. Stratton St. The Larkins have one living daughter, Mrs. Shirley Tassencourt. Their son, Bertram L. Larkin, died last year.

At Gettysburg Prof. Larkin is associate professor of economics and holds membership in the following collegiate and fraternal organizations: Psi Upsilon; Phi Beta Kappa; Kappa Phi Kappa; the Service Club, and Lions International.

Lester O. Johnson

Lester Otto Johnson, native of Carpio, N. D., and associate professor of education, received his B.A. degree from St. Olaf College and his M.A. degree from the University of Minnesota. He taught public school for one year, was a superintendent of schools for three years and has been teaching in college for 23 years.

His fraternal affiliations include Sigma Alpha Epsilon, a social fraternity; Phi Delta Kappa, a graduate education fraternity; Kappa Phi Kappa, an undergraduate education fraternity; Eta Sigma Phi, an undergraduate classical literary fraternity; Phi Gamma Mu, an undergraduate social science fraternity. He is faculty adviser to Kappa Phi Kappa and to SAE.

He is married to the former Miss Mildred F. Dimmerling and they have three children, Rolf, 14, Janet, 11, and David, 9. The Johnsons reside at 309 N. Stratton St.

FINE PROGRAM OF ATHLETICS IS OFFERED CO-EDS

Gettysburg offers a comprehensive program of athletics for women—a program that includes intercollegiate competition in field hockey and baseketball and intramural activity in field hockey, basketball, tennis, table tennis, volley ball, bowling and softball.

The program is under the direction of Miss Grace Kenney, assistant professor of physical education, who studied at New York University and Columbia. Miss Kenney is ably assisted by Miss Lois Gore, a recent graduate from Temple University.

Gettysburg annually fields a fine hockey team. The 1953 schedule includes games with Millersville, Lebanon Valley, Lock Haven, Shippensburg State Teachers College and Penn Hall.

Any coed who has the ability, time and energy is eligible for intercollegiate competition in field hockey and basketball. Members of the field hockey squad work out from four to six p.m. daily during the season which runs from October 10 until November 28. There are 18 players on the squad, of which 11 are starters.

Field Hockey Schedule

The complete 1953 field hockey schedule follows:

Dean Of Men Assumes Many Duties, Responsibilities Including Counsel System

By ROBERT H. FRYLING
Dean Of Men
Gettysburg College

DR. ROBERT H. FRYLING

The duties of the Dean of Men can be classified into two categories, one being those activities concerning the college which are related to the community of Gettysburg, and the other being certain activities and functions which are inherent to the campus.

In the first category, this office assumes the responsibility of liaison with borough officials such as the Burgess, the Chief of Police, the Town Council, etc; as well as such municipal servants as the Fire Department, Water Authority, Gas and Electric Companies, etc. Such individual contacts, however, do not end with these authorities but rather are extended to the individual citizens of the community who are recipients of the wiles of some of the more energetic young men residing in the college community. The Dean of Men encourages those residents of Gettysburg who have encountered any deeds of the aforementioned students to contact this office for cooperation in establishing better and more understanding relationships between the college, which is an integral part of the community, and the community itself.

Coordinate Campus Activities

With regards to the second category, this office is responsible for the supervision and coordination of the activities of the campus fraternities. This direction is accomplished through meetings with the Interfraternity Council which is composed of one representative from each fraternity. This council is the governing body of the fraternity system. In addition to this council, the fraternity presidents meet regularly as a group to decide training policies for the fraternities and extend the necessary cooperation for maintaining a better balance between the fraternities and the appropriate officials of the community.

The main student governing group on the campus is the Student Senate and this body, which also comes under the jurisdiction of this office, is responsible to the college administration for the control of all student activities, both academic and social, and hence the burden of student body relationships in the college.

Counsel Freshmen

One of the important responsibilities of this office lies in the developing of a counseling system for freshmen and upperclassmen. In particular, it is necessary to provide an adequate program for the counseling of the incoming freshmen. This is accomplished through a group of professors whose duty it is to assume the responsibility of the academic counseling of the members of the freshman class. They meet with individuals of their group periodically to discuss their progress in class work and advise on future courses according to the results of the many tests given to the freshmen during the freshmen week which determines the field of their abilities and interests. Acting in conjunction with these faculty advisors are the Student Dormitory Counselors who are responsible for observing any personal problems which would be a detriment to the individual's study habits, and give a report of these to the proper advisor. In order to complete the counseling system there exists a committee composed of the Chaplain, the Guidance Counselor, the College Physician, and the Dean of Men who confer with those individuals needing guidance of a personal and confidential nature.

Finally, the responsibilities of campus parking and coordinator of the ROTC units are designated to this office. The latter assignment entails being the representative of the college at military functions both on and off the campus which may involve salutations to persons in ranks from Private to General.

In an evaluation, then, it is expected that the office of Dean of Men is essentially one which should institute coordination and cooperation between the various components of the campus and the community.

New Art Department Opens At Gettysburg College

For many years, although there was no regular art department at Gettysburg College, devoted and learned teachers such as Dr. William K. Sundermeyer, Dr. Heintz Langerhans, and Dr. Frank Kramer have taught courses in art appreciation. Capable volunteers such as Mr. Jensen have given time for small studio groups also.

These activities under different headings and some changes in subject-matter will now be taught by Prof. W. F. Robinson, head of the newly-opened art department, in the basement of Christ Chapel (with the exception of Dr. Kramer's favorite course in Oriental Art Appreciation which will continue as in the past).

A course in art history will present the study of art from the days of the cave men through the Gothic era and will make considerable use of colored slides. In a somewhat similar manner the art of the Renaissance will be examined in an art appreciation course in which students will learn about Giotto, Duccio, Leonardo, Michelangelo, and other masters who precluded the moderns.

Use 3-Dimensional Slides

In "Art Today" appreciation will be undertaken with some innovations. For probably the first time in any college, three-dimensional color slides will be extensively used. (Because they were not available through usual purchasing channels Prof. Robinson made the slides himself using stereo equipment.) In approaching the study of the art trends students will consider how a young married couple might solve the decorating problems of a one-room apartment. Other sub-topics will include "Art in Religion" as the term progresses and detailed study of some of the outstanding works in architecture, sculpture, and painting by Wright, Moore, Matisse, and other contemporaries.

Complete one-term courses in studio work are now offered in "Beginning Drawing, Painting, and Composition" and also advanced work in "Pictorial Design." These courses are regular college type intended to aid the student in increasing his understanding of the esthetic problems involved. There will be no "copy" or "mechanical" types of work. Rather the approach will be what is sometimes termed "creative expression" with emphasis on intelligent looking at the world in which we move and live and its pictorial presentation so that others may enjoy what the student-artist found interesting or fascinating.

Complete Pottery Section

A complete pottery section is offering beginning and intermediate courses in the forming, firing, and glazing of functional pots Here again the emphasis is away from the ordinary "flashy" type of object and the attempt is to create pots that not only are functional but are delightful to look at in terms of fine color and pleasing shape with moderate decoration.

The department will present art, in all courses, as a definite part of intelligent daily living and will attempt to bridge the gap between the "commonplace" and the "esthetic." Studio courses will aid the individual in communicating to others what he has found delightful as he manipulated materials.

It is hoped that townspeople will want to enter classes with the regular Gettysburg students and have interesting experiences as they learn. A series of exhibitions and otoher special art events are being planned for the enjoyment of the community during the coming year.

Beautiful Christ Chapel, Built At A Cost Of $570,000; Will Be Dedicated On College Campus On October 17

Gettysburg College's new $570,000 Christ Chapel will not be formally dedicated until October 17, homecoming week at the school, but it already has been used for weddings and other purposes.

Started in June, 1951, the towering steeple and high brick walls of the Colonial style structure have become a land mark of beauty on the campus.

The tower, which bears a 17-foot high Cross, at one-time, during the structure, flew the American Flag. Workmen of the O. H. Hostetter Co., of Hanover, general contractors for the work, felt that the flag should fly from the high tower until "it was replaced with one thing greater —the Cross," the workmen said.

The huge mosaic behind the altar and the altar itself were made in Italy by workmen renowned for their skill in the ancient arts.

Beautiful Windows

An innovation, of which the Ramspeck Studio of New York is proud, is the high stained windows of the church. The church seeks to reproduce the Colonial period throughout. The original Colonial windows were of a bluish tinted glass, without painting or etching. The windows in the new chapel provide the additional beauty of stained figures and detail, but will retain the simplicity of the original blue tinted glass of colonial days. They send a mosaic of colored light down into the white and mahogany interior of the church providing as much light as an ordinary window, while subduing and coloring the light to give the interior a new beauty and a feeling of reverence to the spectator.

On one side the windows represent familiar teachings from the Bible. On the other side they retell the parables. The windows are made of a number of panes, as were the colonial windows.

Organ Concert Nov. 5

The organ was especially designed for the new church by Virgil Fox, famed concert organist and organist at Riverside Church in New York and was constructed from his plans by the Austin Organ Co.

A special concert on the new organ will be presented by Mr. Fox, November 5, in connection with the annual meeting of the Woman's League of Gettysburg College, to be held here at that time. Money for the organ was raised by the Woman's League.

Entrance to the church is by a wide concrete walk from North Washington Street to the front doors. The entire interior recreates the traditional colonial church structure, familiar not only in churches, but for the part they played as assembly halls in the days when the nation was seeking its independence.

1,200 Seating Capacity

The church seats 1,200, and contains 550,000 cubic feet of space. The mosaic behind the altar reaches from altar height to near the ceiling and extends nearly from wall to wall of the sanctuary. It shows Christ, the heavens, a student in academic garb, a church and the earth and bears the inscription: "I am the Way, the Truth and the Life; No one cometh unto the Father but by Me."

Indirect lighting is used to highlight the beauty of the interior as well as providing illumination.

In the basement of the church are eight classrooms, an art studio, two offices and a seminar room which are used in connection with the regular college classes.

Top view shows the interior of the chapel looking from the rear to the altar. In the center is a new photograph of the chapel. The photograph below is another of the interior taken from the left front.

LOYALTY FUND TOTAL IS NEAR $100,000 MARK

The Loyalty Fund of Gettysburg College, contributed by alumni and friends of the college, has amounted to nearly $100,000 in the last three years, according to reports by Alumni Secretary C. Paul Cessna.

Experiencing its greatest year since it was started in 1933, the Loyalty Fund amounted to $30,934.83 in the year ending June 30, 1953, with 1,436 contributors. Ralph "Jerry" Hoch, Philadelphia, class of 1916, was the chairman for 1953. The chairman for the coming year is William H. B. Stevens, Harrisburg, class of 1926.

Generous Donors

The Loyalty Fund has a history that extends back to 1843 when the Alumni Association developed a plan to help finance the college. In 1858 it inaugurated a program for the establishment of the Alumni Professorship. Progress was slow but sure with this program and by 1897 total contributions amounted to $14,267.00. This money was received by the College Treasurer and invested as part of the general endownment.

In 1904 the Board of Trustees directed that the sum of $25,000 should be set aside from the general endowment fund as an endowment for the Alumni Professorship of Mathematics and Astronomy, "in full settlement of the Board's Liability for principal and interest of money received by it for the Alumni Professorship Fund."

C. E. Gerberich, class of 1913, was elected president of the Alumni Association in June, 1932, and in March of the following year the first Loyalty Fund drive, as it is known today, was launched.

The purpose of this Fund as defined in Article IX, Section 2 of the constitution "shall be to provide an agency which shall further the practice among alumni and friends of Gettysburg College of giving money annually, in large amounts or small, according to his or her ability, for the purposes of the college thus providing a means of consolidating many gifts into one large amount which may be used for special needs of Gettysburg College from time to time." In 1933 the fund received $3,566.00 from 596 contributors.

Before 1951, the Loyalty Fund had special objectives such as alumni scholarships, memorial portico, walks, student loan fund, balance budget, Hanson Foundation, Scholarship fund, and music department. In the past three years it has had multiple objectives.

In 1953 the 1453 contributors gave for a total of 27 objectives.

SPEND $150,000 EVERY YEAR FOR COLLEGE MEALS

By RICHARD C. DEBUS
Business Manager
Gettysburg College

Three times a day, seven days a week, 32 weeks a year, over 400 students sit down to eat in Huber Hall, the college dining hall.

A task such as this one is a formidable one. We are unable to allow a selection of menu, therefore we must plan meals which are nutritious and still have variety and attractiveness. In addition the meals must be cooked to the taste of 400 epicureans who are always comparing them to the way "Mother cooks."

Such a task makes necessary the employment of a dietitian, cooks, and bakers who are expert in their fields. But, further than that, it makes it imperative that only the best of foods, in the right quantities, are purchased.

Spend $150,000 Annually

A total of about $150,000 per year goes into the operation of the dining hall, of which $120,000 is spent for food. A family of four may buy ¾ to one pound of Hamburger meat for a meal; we must buy 100 pounds. This same family will find that 8 ears of corn will suffice while 800, or better than 66 dozen, are necessary to Huber Hall. Have you ever complained about the price of milk? Think of quantity we must serve to our young people — almost 400 quarts per day — about 89,000 quarts of milk in roughly 8 months!

Just imagine calling the local grocer and ordering 100 pounds of Hamburger, 800 ears of corn, 100 pounds of potatoes, 124 quarts of milk, 10 pounds of coffee, and ask the baker to deliver 50 apple pies. For only one meal!

Countless Others Items

These are some of the major items the college must purchase to satisfy the vociferous appetite of some 400 young American men and women.

We must purchase huge quantities of salt, pepper, sugar, butter, canned fruit, fresh fruit and vegetables and scores and scores of other miscellaneous items.

The college cafeteria is efficiently operated for the best interest of those it serves, the students of Gettysburg College.

Copper mining, once important in Cornwall, England, has dwindled in recent years.

Says Philosophy Department Has "Double Role"

By DR. NORMAN E. RICHARDSON, JR.
Head of Philosophy Dept.
Gettysburg College

The role of a philosophy department in a small, liberal arts, church-related college is a double one. It has both a loyalty to its own students and the students in the other departments of the college.

To those few students who major in a philosophy department the teachers are obligated to offer the best interpretations of both the methods and the results of philosophic thought down through human history. Because those who major in the philosophy department invariably continue their work in the graduate school the standards of that department must of be the highest.

Important Constructive Work

To those much more numerous students who do not major in the philosophy department the teachers are obligated to offer the contributions which philosophy can make to both their professional training and their own personal development. These contributions include a positive and a negative side. They include an appreciation of the importance of asking questions — the appreciation of which process is necessary if we are to be a free people. And they include an appreciation of the important answers which are being offered to their questions.

Today the constructive work of a philosophy department is very important. As R. G. Collingwood has pointed out, it was the philosophers of the seventeenth century who pointed out that nature was basically intelligible, and on this the scientists went ahead and built. Today we need philosophers who will point out that history, human history, is intelligible, and in what ways — if we are to avoid the despair and collapse which we see as all too possible. The offering of such a belief is at one and the same time the challenge and the contribution which is expected of a philosophy department today.

Gettysburg And Vicinity Offer Much To The College And Seminary Students

Gettysburg offers much for the amusement, pleasure and needs of the college and seminary student.

That its residents warmly welcome the students during their stay here is attested by the fact that out of nearly every graduating class some students remain on as residents of the town, making this the center of their future life.

The town itself combines the warm good fellowship of the small town agricultural center with the cosmopolitan atmosphere of a world renowned historical shrine that annually attracts more than 750,000 visitors from all over the world.

It is a community where one might see on a given day plain clothed Mennonites and natives of India in flowing saris. One is also likely to see strange garbed college students during the heighth of the football season when shirttale parades and pajama parades come along to help "cheer the Bullets on to victory."

Variety Of Facilities

There are all types of facilities available in Gettysburg, movies, churches, hotels and rooming houses for visiting parents, drug stores, clubs, dry cleaning establishments, newsstands, grocery stores, restaurants, shoe repair shops, men's wear shops, women's shops, dry good stores, garages, and even bookkeeping and attorney services, if such are needed.

Churches are well attended and include two Lutheran Churches, a Catholic, Episcopalian, Evangelical Reformed, Baptist, AME Zion, Presbyterian, Evangelical United Brethren, Foursquare Gospel and Methodist churches. There is also a Christian Scientist reading room, and near town are churches of the Church of the Brethren, Mennonite and other denominations.

There are two movie houses in the borough, one on Carlisle St. and the other on Baltimore St. and in addition there are several drive-in theaters within a dozen miles or so of the town.

Many Organizations

There are two American Legion posts, a Veterans of Foreign Wars post, and lodges of the Moose, Elks and Eagles. In addition the Masons and Knights of Columbus both have active units here, and there are innumerable other organizations including the Rotary, Lions, Exchange, Torch Clubs, Odd Fellows, POS of A. and Order of Independent Americans. Almost every national organization has a unit or chapter here.

The numerous stores offer every type of merchandise needed from clothing to stationery and cards. There are six barber shops and for the coeds a number of beauty shops are available.

Many students join in community activities — becoming Girl Scout or Boy Scout counselors, or joining local church groups and others. All organizations welcome these interested in their activities.

Historic Landmarks

For the historically minded, the town offers much. There are several museums: The Wills House where Lincoln wrote part of his Gettysburg address; the Jennie Wade House; the Cyclorama, huge painting of Pickett's charge; the National Museum, with a large collection of relics and the "electric map"; the Lee Museum, where General Lee had his headquarters. The battlefield and cemetery are the main attractions.

At the court house the Adams County Historical Society has a collection of relics from all periods of Gettysburg history, from the earliest days in 1800 through the Civil War and the more recent conflicts.

There is much of cultural and historic interest for everyone interested in broadening his knowledge.

COLLEGE HAS MANY COURSES IN PSYCHOLOGY

By DR. KENNETH L. SMOKE
Head of Psychology Dept.
Gettysburg College

The course offerings in the psychology department at Gettysburg College during the coming year will be General Psychology, Business and Industrial Psychology, Social Psychology, Mental Hygiene, Psychology of Personality, Experimental Psychology, Psychological Tests and Measurements, Abnormal Psychology, Advanced General Psychology, and an individualized reading course for seniors in the department. These courses are designed to help students prepare for various types of business and professional work and for graduate study leading to work as a psychologist in education government, business and industry.

There are approximately 500 student registrations in the department for the coming year — about 250 each semester. Most of these students are of course doing major work in other departments, but about forty-five of them are "majors" in psychology. It is expected that eighteen of these will be graduated during this academic year.

Three Instructors

Psychology students of high scholastic standing who are "majors" or "minors" in the department are eligible for membership in Psi Chi, national honorary society in psychology. The chapter established on this campus in 1949 sponsors regular programs throughout the year, including films such as "Psychiatry in Action" and lectures on popular subjects to which the public is invited.

The work of the department is regularly handled by three people. The chairman of the department teaches the courses in Psychology of Personality and Experimental Psychology. Edgar Eddins, instructor in the department, handles the work in Business and Industrial Psychology and Social Psychology. The third person in the department, not as yet appointed for the coming year, will teach Mental Hygiene and Abnormal Psychology. All instructors teach the course in General Psychology.
